"Why should we fear, and what? The Laws? They all are armed in virtue's cause; And aiming at the selfsame end, Satire is always virtue's friend."

The Supreme Court takes the dome off Teapot Dome.

Representative Kelly reports that the newspapers are the greatest obstacle to prohibition. That's what George III said about the tax on tea when he bawled out Ye Boston Daily Gazette.

Mayor Thompson of Chicago dodgists a message to London, using his hat for a megaphone. He thinks Washington is still encamped at Valley Forge.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran's orders to his corkscrews to engage in less gunplay when spending an evening at a night club recalls an old song— "Enjoy yo'self, gents, keep yo' razors in yo' inside pockets; Enjoy yo'self, don't commit no disgrace."

This wholesome move may start a much-needed reform in other branches of the Government, and we may yet frisk the Federal Trade Commission of their deadly weapons as they enter the hearing room.

Dr. George C. Havenner objects to the establishment of any more cemeteries in Washington. The Doc hates himself.

The report of the sale of the Pittsburgh Pirates isn't true—they're going to give 'em away.

The radio does well to honor the memory of Columbus—he's the guy who made its invention necessary.

A typical American coroner's jury holds that Russell Scott was insane because he committed suicide in his cell, the only sensible thing he ever did.

George Remus has opened a law office in the Hamilton County jail, and he won't have to go to the expense of buying one of those cards to stick in the door: "Will be back at 3 p. m."

Monaco is a great place, all right—no army, no navy, no sheriff, no taxes! And no liberty.

Washington Day at Baltimore's Iron Horse Show, but isn't the B. & O. a bit premature in celebrating its 100th anniversary? This pioneer railroad's corner stone was laid near the old Mount Clare junction, in the southwestern part of the city, by Charles Carroll of Carrollton, then the only surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence, not in 1827, but on July 4, 1828. The stone was presented by the stonecutters of Baltimore, and dropped out of all recollection for 70 years, until it was discovered in 1898.

Speaking of historic anniversaries, and we are about to begin doing so ourselves, pretty soon, we have just run across an interesting advertisement of Lunsburg's dry goods house published in 1864. How many Washington firms today can boast that they had an ad on the front page of the old National Intelligencer?

A New York dry agent in a night club should stick to Gen. Grant's historic order at the Battle of the Wilderness—"A little more of the grape!"

Elsie Janis loses her voice and is threatened with complete dumbness. We can think of ten right off the bat we'd rather have had this happen to.

We suppose that in a couple of years Maryland City will be growing ambitious, like Alexandria, and begin talking about annexing Washington.

Calles crushes the Mexican revolution with a loss of only two bottles of ink and a fountain pen.

When facsimile wireless messages are charged for by the square inch the Radio Corporation of America is just about going to doom the stub pen.

We are astounded to see Senator Edwards, of New Jersey, come out so strongly for such a notorious dry as Al Smith.

King George chats with the legationaires and gets considerably befogged.

Rockville's "wild boy" is committed to school, but what about her wild women?

The site of the ancient Circus Maximus, in Rome, is the scene of a spectacular fire that would have inspired Nero to give an encore on his violin.

Major Jimmy Walker greets Marconi as Bill—he learned how to translate the Italian language while in Rome and, probably called Mussolini the Deuce.

TEAPOT DOME LEASE IS VOIDED AS FRAUD BY SUPREME COURT

DEFENDANTS' RELIEF LIES WITH CONGRESS

Fall and Sinclair Next Week Face Criminal Trial in Capital.

By ALBERT W. FOX.
Teapot Dome goes back to the Government and the final chapter in the legal battle over the civil oil lease cases was yesterday written by decision of the United States Supreme Court canceling the lease which former Secretary of the Interior Fall awarded more than five years ago to the Mammoth Oil Co., organized by Harry F. Sinclair.

The Government won on all counts, precisely as it did in the Pan-American or Doherty civil cases. Associate Justice Pierce Butler, who wrote the opinion in the latter case, delivered yesterday's opinion. In both cases, the illegality of the lease itself and the secrecy and fraud which the Government charged in the execution are sustained. Atlee Pomeroy and Owen J. Roberts, Government special counsel, have now been completely victorious in the civil or equity suits brought to recover the reserves and reestablish the Government's former policy.

On Monday next the criminal trial of Fall and Sinclair on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government will begin before Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons in the District Supreme Court here. There was speculation as to whether the Supreme Court's verdict in the equity case would influence the coming trial, but the cases admittedly stand on an entirely different footing, as the Government will seek to prove bribery, corruption and other specific acts charged in the indictment.

Decision Is Unanimous.
The court's decision yesterday was without dissent, but Associate Justices Stone and Van Devanter took no part in the proceedings. The suit in equity to cancel the lease began in the District Court of Wyoming before Judge Thomas Blake Kennedy in March, 1925. The Government lost, but appealed to the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals, which reversed Kennedy's decision, the case then coming to the Supreme Court for final determination.

The decision sustains practically all that the Government counsel charged with respect to the secrecy of the methods employed and the inferences to be drawn from the acquisition of Liberty bonds by Fall after the formation of the Continental Trading Co.

Likewise the Government's contention that Edwin Denby, former Secretary of the Navy, was a passive figure and that Fall really controlled the making of the lease is sustained, as it was in the Doherty case.

Fall's activities prior to the making of the lease, as set forth in the Government's charges, are referred to at some length by the decision, which says that Fall's failure to submit the lease to the Attorney General or to any lawyer in his own department "indicates that he knew the transaction was liable to be condemned as illegal, and that, without regard to the law, he intended to put it through."

$25,000 Loan to Fall Cited.
Fall's "hidden wealth," as Butler refers to it, and the fact that after leaving the Cabinet Fall obtained $25,000 from Sinclair as a loan are cited, among other incidents, to "strengthen and confirm the inference that Fall had been willing to conspire to defraud the United States."

"The complaint did not allege bribery," the decision states, "and, in CONTINUED ON PAGE 4, COLUMN 2.

State Bars Chinese From White Schools

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Native-born Chinese were barred from white schools in Mississippi by a ruling handed down by the Mississippi Supreme Court today.

A court ruling in the case of W. F. Bond, Superintendent of education, against Joe Tin Fung, an adult, and Joe Tin Lun, a minor, said that friction, disorder and general unhappiness would be occasioned if efforts were made to associate the Caucasian race with the colored race in Mississippi schools.

The court defined as colored any race other than Caucasian, and held that it would be necessary for Joe Tin Lun to enroll in a negro school.

COSTES OVER MOROCCO ON HOP TO ARGENTINA

French Plane Continues on Towards Senegal on the First Stage.

Casablanca, French Morocco, Oct. 10 (A. P.).—Costes and Le Brix, in the biplane "Nungesser-Coli," on their Paris-to-Buenos Aires flight, flew over the airfield here at 9:48 tonight. They continued on their flight to the south. (Casablanca is about 1,300 miles from Paris.)

Flying with Lindbergh-like regularity, the plane swooped gracefully, just low enough to be easily recognized, and circled once over the airfield. Then it glided off into the night towards St. Louis, Senegal, and Dakar, which lies about 125 miles to the south of St. Louis. It is possible that the next hop will be from Dakar.

The distance between Paris and Casablanca is something more than 1,200 miles. It was covered by the aviators in 12 hours 5 minutes, at an average speed of 100 miles an hour.

Circus Maximus Site Scene of Great Fire

Rome, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The spot where the ancient Circus Maximus once stood was swept by a terrific fire today. A number of storehouses, garages and similar commercial buildings occupy the ancient site.

Soon after the fire started the entire section became a kind of Danteque "inferno" which lasted for 30 hours until firemen succeeded in bringing the blaze under control. The property loss was large, but no casualties were reported.

Prince Potemkin, governor of Rome; Secretary General Dellisanti and Caron Manzoni, secretary to the governor, as well as other high municipal officials, rushed to the scene of the fire.

Facsimile Transmission By Radio Seen in Future

R. C. A. Counsel, Speaking Before International Session, Says Method Would Eliminate Code and Bring Charge Per Square Inch Instead of Per Word.

(Associated Press.)
Exact reproduction by wireless of messages, either in handwriting or typewritten, some day may become practicable, Col. Manton Davis, counsel for the Radio Corporation of America, declared yesterday before a committee of the International Radiotelegraph Convention, before which he urged great liberality in regulating Government wireless.

Should this method of transmitting messages come into use, he said, charges would be assessed by the square inch of message paper rather than by the number of words sent, and he contended that this argues for broad international regulations regarding word counting and obligatory use of the Morse code.

"Word count and the application of the Morse code would be repealed by the march of radio art, if facsimile transmission became a reality," Davis said.

The committee, composed of delegates empowered by their governments to discuss the advisability of reducing telegraphic code words to no more than five letters and to agree upon the proper toll, will meet this afternoon. The American delegation, it is understood, probably will agree to the attitude of many of the European countries that the matter be not taken up at this time.

Regarding the suggestion emanating from many quarters that the Paris Telegraph Convention, to which the United States is not a party, be merged with the Radio Convention, the American delegation is understood to fear that the Paris document goes too deeply into questions of the internal management of telegraphic concerns for American adhesion to be possible.

FRANCE IS INFORMED U. S. WILL NOT FIGHT REFUNDING OF LOAN

Assurance Given Envoy as American Tariff Note Is Sent.

PLAN SEEKS INTEREST CUT ON $100,000,000

Washington Officials Ask Review of Quarantine on Plants by French.

(Associated Press.)
Formal announcement was made yesterday by the State Department that the French Ambassador here had been officially informed that the American Government would have no objection to the refunding of the $100,000,000 8 per cent loan of 1920 made to the French government by American bankers.

Coincidentally, it was announced that the American charge at Paris had been instructed to deliver to the French foreign office the American reply to the last French tariff note, in which France is asked to restore the minimum duties on American imports pending the negotiation of a general commercial treaty.

Delivery of the note was held up pending a final decision on the administration's attitude on the loan refunding proposal, which recently was urged anew by the Paris government. It was the belief of some Cabinet officers, at least, that a favorable decision on this proposition would contribute to more friendly Franco-American relations.

Objections Are Lifted.
Objection to the refunding plan had been raised by Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee and others. After conferences with Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover, however, Senator Borah withdrew his objection in this instance, explaining that while he was opposed to such loans in principle pending a settlement of the French debt, he would not press the point in this case because of the importance to the country generally of the tariff negotiations.

In its announcement that it would act favorably on the refunding of the $100,000,000 loan when requested to do so by American bankers at interest, the State Department said "this refunding transaction involves no advance of new money to France." The refunding is sought so that France can have the benefit of a much lower interest rate prevailing in the New York market.

Minimum Duties Wanted.
Besides urging restoration of the minimum French duties, the American note invites the French government to point out instances of tariff administration about which it has complained, and also agrees to a review of plant quarantines provided France will make a like review of its own plant quarantines and quarantines affecting American imports.

YOUTH DIVES TO SAVE WOMAN FROM RIVER

Mrs. Florence Rollins Drowning as M. J. O'Connor Rescues Her.

Prompt action on the part of Michael J. O'Connor, 19 years old, 1245 K street southeast, saved the life of Mrs. Florence Rollins, 37, 426 Thirteenth street southeast, yesterday after the woman had leaped from the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge into the Eastern branch of the Potomac. Suffering from exposure Mrs. Rollins was rushed to Casualty Hospital.

O'Connor was at work on a plumbing job at a filling station near the end of the bridge when he was told a woman had plunged into the river. He ran to the river bank and dived, swimming to a boat moored in midstream. Using his hands to prop the craft, he reached the drowning woman, lifted her aboard and paddled to the sea wall.

Mrs. Rollins was in a highly nervous state following her rescue. It is the second time she has been a patient at Casualty Hospital. Her last treatment there was about a month ago, when she was overcome by gas.

TRAMP SLUGS YOUTH AND STEALS HIS CAR

Autoist, on Way Back to City, Robbed by Man He Befriended.

Slugged by a tramp whom he had befriended with a "lift" near Charlotte, N. C., yesterday, J. Thornton Risdon, 18 years old, of Kew Gardens Apartments, 2700 Q street northwest, was robbed of his automobile which he was bringing back to this city after it had been stolen near Ninth and F streets, September 19.

Risdon was left on the road near Reidville, N. C., where he stopped after regaining consciousness in the tonneau of the car, which the robber was driving at a high rate of speed. He was "four" by a farmer, who took him to a physician in Reidville for treatment for cuts. He is now on the way home, having telegraphed his father, John T. Risdon, superintendent of Kew Gardens, for funds.

He told Virginia police that the stranger, who hailed him near Charlotte, was driving the car while he rested. The man suddenly complained of engine trouble and when Risdon stepped out to make an examination he was knocked senseless.

FACES DUMBNESS

ELSIE JANIS.

ELSIE JANIS' VOICE LOST FOLLOWING A COLLAPSE

Facing Complete Dumbness, Actress Must Rest, Mother Says.

LEAVING WEST COAST

Special to The Washington Post.
Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Josephine Janis, mother of Elsie Janis, today confirmed that her daughter has lost her voice, and that she is threatened with complete dumbness unless she quits the stage indefinitely. Miss Janis and her mother will leave the West Coast for a prolonged rest in the Eastern United States on Saturday.

Miss Janis collapsed behind the sets of the Mayan Theater here last Friday. Her company was just finishing its Los Angeles run in "Oh Kay." Yesterday the company put on its play without Miss Janis, in San Francisco. The actress was informed that she will be unable to appear again during the coast run by Dr. C. Benson Wood, who is attending her here.

The star's physician informed her she would be unable to use her voice at all for ten days, and that any effort to talk or sing might make her dumb for life.

Mrs. Janis is "seriously worried." Dr. Wood said Miss Janis' collapse was due to the demands made on her vocal cord by her part in "Oh Kay" for its two months' run. A bad cold made her condition acute.

"She is physically unable to talk at all," Dr. Wood said. "It will be much better if she makes no effort to use her voice for quite a time. I hope to have her in physical condition for traveling by Saturday."

PROGRESSIVE BLOC SEEKS AGREEMENT ON FARM PROGRAM

Borah Is Hopeful After Conference With Nye and Norris.

PROGRAM MAY FIGHT REDUCTION OF TAXES

On the Whole Assistance to Administration Is Seen in Insurgents' Plans.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.
The program of Senate progressives, as shaping up at present, will be more of assistance to the administration Republicans than anything else, in the opinion of the majority of observers yesterday.

Few if any expect that it will be carried out to the extent of opposing the party nominee next year. At this time, in fact, former Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, and Vice President Dawes, to a less extent, appear to be the only ones likely to suffer from it. And the administration stalwarts would hardly shed tears over the former's fate and there are no indications that they would lose sleep over evil portents for Gen. Dawes which the movement might hold.

But Lowden and Dawes have no cause for alarm as yet. It has not yet been agreed that the name of Senator Norris of Nebraska, will be put out to garner Middle Western delegates. It will be put up in Nebraska, but there has been no decision as to the two Dakotas and Wisconsin. It is understood, for that matter, that the Nonpartisan League of North Dakota has already endorsed Lowden.

Threat Seems Program.
It begins to appear to many that the real purpose of the bloc is to establish itself as a threat at this session of Congress. Few observers are able to see either Senator Norris or Senator Borah, around whom the movement revolves, really bolting the Republican ticket and supporting the Democratic nominee next year.

And in so far as the threat they may make at the next session of Congress is concerned, it is possible that on one great issue they may play right into the administration's hands.

Farm relief is one of the matters that will be on the bloc's legislative program, Senator Borah made known yesterday. He, Senator Norris and Senator Nye, of North Dakota, conferred during the day, but as the others are out of the city, they did not get very far, according to Senator Borah.

Senator Borah indicated that it is possible, at least, his hope, that the bloc will be able to agree on farm relief legislation. If it does, it is more than likely that the agreement would come close to the administration plan. The Idaho senator is strongly opposed to the equalization feature, the essence of the McNary-Haugen bill. This has been the great gulf between the administration and the McNary-Haugen forces. If there is any agreement among the progressives it is safe to assume that the Idaho senator will not CONTINUED ON PAGE 10, COLUMN 4.

10 OF 112 ADMIT GUILT IN VAST ALCOHOL PLOT

Superior Company, Known as "Wall Street of Rum Row," Is Involved.

ATLANTA TERMS FOR 6

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Ten defendants in the Superior industrial alcohol conspiracy case, the first of 112 persons from all sections of the United States named in a blanket indictment, March 15, 1926, to come into court, entered pleas of guilty in Federal court today. The men immediately were sentenced by Federal Judge Paul Jones.

Those who entered guilty pleas and their sentences were:
Benjamin Fogel, Frank Fogel, Benjamin Gersonstein, David Gersonstein, and Edward Silberstein, president of the company, alleged to have been the "brains" of the conspiracy, eighteen months in Atlanta and $6,000 fine; David R. Roth, secretary-treasurer of the company, one year and a day and $1,500 fine; Percy Corbin, in charge of records of the company, $300 fine; Camille Pateman, truck driver, $100 and costs; Benjamin Miller, truck driver, $500 and costs. All were from Philadelphia.

Sentences of Walter Engesser, superintendent of the Cleveland plant, and chief chemist who also pleaded guilty, was deferred.

All of those who received penitentiary sentences and Engesser were permitted to remain at liberty under present bonds until November 1, when they are CONTINUED ON PAGE 10, COLUMN 3.

Australian Flight Planned by Milani

A. F. Milani, backer of Arthur C. Goebel in his flight to Honolulu in the Dole race, will sponsor a flight from California to Australia, with Goebel as navigator, during the spring of 1928, he announced last night.

The flight, he stated, will be made in a trimotor amphibian plane. Plans for the flight expect a stop at Honolulu for refueling before heading for Australia. It is uncertain whether Lieut. William Davis, jr., pilot of the Woolaroo, will accompany Goebel on the Australian flight, Milani stated, since Davis was married recently and his plans for the future are unknown. Milani arrived in Washington yesterday and is at the Washington Hotel.

Bandits Get Life Term For Cemetery Holdup

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Benjamin Rader, 18-year-old cemetery bandit convicted of the murder of Patrolman Henry Meyer, was sentenced to 50 years to life imprisonment today. Edward Reilly, his 21-year-old companion in robbery, was given 45 years to life.

Rader and Reilly pleaded guilty Friday to the robbery of two women as they were kneeling beside the grave of their father in a Queens cemetery. Patrolman Meyer was shot by Rader when he attempted to arrest them.

The victims were Ernst & Co., brokers, and the First National Corporation, a subsidiary of the First National Bank of Boston.

CITIZEN ASSOCIATION MERGER S PLANNED FOR TAKOMA PARK

Consolidation of Factions, Split in 1924, Now Is Being Sought.

OFFICER NOMINATIONS ARE MADE AT MEETING

Election to Be Delayed in Order to Advance Unity Program.

Plans to consolidate the two citizens associations of Takoma Park were discussed last night at the meeting of the Takoma Park Citizens Association in the Takoma Park branch of the Public Library, Fifth and Cedar streets northwest.

The associations were originally combined, but split in 1924, one wing taking the name of the Citizens Association of Takoma Park, D. C., while the other became known as the Takoma Park Citizens Association, and was composed of residents of both Maryland and the District.

In discussing the proposed reunion, the former body is represented by Dr. W. H. Whitaker, president; C. H. Spencer, Jesse C. Suter, Dr. D. B. Shoemaker and Morris Betts. President C. C. Waters, Walter Frey, Roy Y. Ferner, Dr. C. G. Galloway and Capt. Charles V. Johnson represent the Takoma Park Citizens Association. The latter group nominated officers for the year at last night's meeting, but announced it would defer election until December in order to allow time for consideration of the reunion.

T. H. Duckett Speaks.

T. Howard Duckett, chairman of the Washington Sanitary Commission, addressed the meeting, speaking on the front porch of the building. He spoke for the maintenance of the water and sewer system. He was subjected to many inquiries regarding the operations of the commission. Dr. Guy Clinton, who launched an attack against the rates charged for the maintenance of the system, took a prominent part in the questioning of overpayments made in accordance with an assessment which was later declared invalid was among the subjects discussed.

Duckett told the citizens the commission had no funds from which to make the repayments and said that the matter would be adjusted by a special assessment on the entire district. He explained that the legislature authorized a certain amount for a specific purpose and the commission must abide by its rulings.

Nominations were as follows: For president, Roy Y. Ferner; vice president, Mrs. Alicia Lamont; secretary, Herbert Walton Rutledge; assistant secretary, Daniel M. Goodacre; treasurer, Mrs. William L. White, and delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations, H. R. Smalley and John Walker.

300 Attend Meeting Of Hillsdale Citizens

More than 300 persons attended the meeting of the Hillsdale Civic Association last night in the Birney School Building, to hear a verbal report of a committee of citizens which had inspected Stockfoot Branch from its junction at Stanton and Sheridan roads with a ravine drainage system, and at St. Elizabeths Hospital, to the trunk sewer at Nichols avenue. Among the speakers were Dr. George Havenner, president of the Association; Guy Clinton, secretary; Dr. George H. Richardson and George T. Beason, colored members of the Citizens Legislative Advisory Council, and John H. Wilson.

Aid was pledged the citizens of Hillsdale in their effort to correct sanitary conditions along Sheridan road by having a trunk sewer constructed in blocks in length from Stanton road to Nichols avenue. George Beason spoke on law and order and urged members of the association to assist the authorities in enforcing the eighteen amendment. Music was furnished by the Birney Community Center Chorus.

Harry N. Stull Re-elected By Stanton Park Citizens

Opposition to the bill to appropriate $10,000,000 for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission because "it is believed to be a bond issue for the District in disguise" was voiced in a resolution introduced last night at the meeting of the Stanton Park Citizens Association in the Peabody School, Fifth and C streets northeast. A. H. Gregory, first vice president of the association and a delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations, who introduced the resolution, declared the association on a previous occasion had gone on record opposing a bond issue for the District and he felt it should oppose the bill because "it is believed to be a bond issue in disguise."

After a spirited debate it was decided to refer the resolution to the executive committee for consideration and bring it up again for action at the next meeting of the association.

Harry N. Stull was re-elected president of the association last night. Other officers elected were A. H. Gregory, first vice president; James P.

TRIBUTE PAID

SHORT, FIGHTING AS SLAYER OF GORP, LAYS CRIME TO 'FITS'

Defendant, If He Killed Her,
Says Counsel, Knew
Nothing of It.

MISS BURACKER'S DEATH PLANNED, STATE HOLDS

Prisoner Bought Wedding
Gown for Her, Says Counsel; Jury Quickly Chosen.

Special to The Washington Post
Luray, Va., Oct. 10.—Examination of 30 witnesses, exhibition of a blood-stained chair, battered short from a 12-gauge gun, a broken window sash and a pair of shoes, helped the State to build a strong case of circumstantial evidence against Thomas Short, alleged slayer of Miss Buracker, 19 years old, whose trial opened in Page County Circuit Court this morning.

Charging Short with "brutally" planning and premeditating the death of the mountain girl, C. L. Walton opened the case for the State after a jury had been selected within an hour.

Charles A. Hammer, opening for the defense, indicated that he would show that Short was subject to epileptic "fits" brought on by incessant drinking; that if he had murdered Miss Buracker he knew nothing about it.

Defense Scores a Point.

Hammer scored a point when he had inserted in the indictment a degree of crime as low as manslaughter, which had been omitted by the State.

The defense showed its hand quickly in the opening of the trial when Hammer declared he would show that Short was subject to epileptic "fits" brought on by incessant drinking; that if he had murdered Miss Buracker he knew nothing about it.

Planned Marriage, Says Defense.

When court adjourned this evening, the defense had submitted part of its evidence tending to show the character of Short before his wife died about four years ago, and his subsequently becoming addicted to drink.

The defense introduced evidence showing that plans for the marriage of Miss Buracker and Short had been made and that Short had bought the wedding dress.

The defense overruled a number of times on questions and objections by Judge Hiram Bertram, presiding.

Representative Kelly Says
Newspapers Are Great Obstacle to Prohibition.

A resolution urging the press of the United States to support prohibition, was the outcome of a meeting of the Unitarian Temperance Society last night in All Souls' Church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets northwest.

James M. Doran, Federal Commissioner of Prohibition, and Representative Kelly, of Pennsylvania, spoke at the meeting, which was one of the greatest obstacles in its enforcement.

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, also spoke.

The resolution stated that "if the papers of the country were to tell the truth about prohibition and its benefits for a period of one year, it would be the greatest single blow that could be struck for law of prohibition."

The resolution was presented by William L. Walsh, of Billerica, Mass.

Fire Destroys Barn And Farm Implements

Fire, believed to have been started by hobses, destroyed the barn and farm equipment of E. Keys, Dumfries, Va., last night. Keys said that he had seen several tramps in the neighborhood recently and believed that they had thrown a lighted cigarette in the hay in his barn before going to sleep.

A detachment of Marines from the Marine base at Quantico, 7 miles away, was sent to the scene of the blaze with fire apparatus and succeeded in saving the Keys home, a short distance from the barn.

Services Held Today For Theodore Harris

Asheville, N. C., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Funeral services for Theodore Harris, widely known news writer, whose ten-year struggle against disease was lost last night, will be held at Central Methodist Church tomorrow. The Rev. Ashely Chappell, pastor, and the Rev. O. J. Chandler will conduct the services.

Since 1910 Mr. Harris had been almost continuously associated with the Asheville Times and the Asheville Citizen.

In 1915 he was a member of the staff of the Atlanta Constitution. His death was attributed to a complication of uremic poisoning.

Jazz Traffic Gestures Are Banned by Hesse

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, is determined to have all traffic policemen make their "stop" and "go" gestures in the same way, he said yesterday.

Maj. Hesse announced that he had detailed Lieut. B. A. Lamb, of the Traffic Bureau, to make a tour of the fourteen police stations and give the policemen a course in signaling.

As it is now, Maj. Hesse said, one policeman will give a signal one way, and another will give it in another way—to the great confusion of the motorist. There are also some traffic policemen, he said, who have a penchant for "jazzing up" their signals, which also means confusion.

He is confident that after Lieut. Lamb has finished his tour of the precincts, Washington really will have uniform signals.

Lindbergh Escort Forced Down in River

New Orleans, La., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Lieut. Comdr. Ralph A. Davidson, of the Pensacola Naval Station, whose plane made a forced landing in the Mississippi River near here today, attempted to swim ashore and tow his plane, but was forced to see it sink.

He was escorting Col. Charles Lindbergh to New Orleans at the time Commander Davidson said he circled around so as not to land ahead of Col. Lindbergh, and believed a broken gas line caused the accident. He said a streamer passed him, but did not offer assistance. Col. Lindbergh took the air again and hunted for the plane after hearing it had crashed, and then came back on being signaled that Davidson was not hurt, and resumed his tour heading for Jacksonville, Fla.

Dean's Son Ends Life, Due to Lack of Work

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Destitute and out of work, Thomas Lwyd, 35-year-old son of Dean J. P. Lwyd, of All Saints' Cathedral, Halifax, N. S., today committed suicide by gas in a furnished room on Third avenue. Near the body was a note in which Lwyd had said that he "couldn't go on with life." It explained that he had been out of work for three weeks and could stand no more.

Pinned to the note was a photograph of his father, clipped from a newspaper.

Mail Pouch Bandits Get $100,000 in Holdup

Los Angeles, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Two armed men today kidnaped Frank H. Wilmoth, a messenger for the Bank of Italy, forced him to drive them to an isolated spot in his automobile and robbed him of five pouches of registered mail containing checks and other securities amounting to more than $100,000.

Wilmoth, who was transferring the mail from the Hollywood branch to bank headquarters here, was thrown out of the car after driving them a short distance. Bank officials said they did not believe the robbers could cash the stolen checks.

SCOTT HELD INSANE BY CORONER'S JURY; LONG DISPUTE ENDS

Hastily Summoned Group Votes and Departs With Lunch Money.

Chicago, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury, hastily recruited from wayfarers in the cheap lodging-house district, decided in an hour today that Russell Scott was "insane, an issue over which learned lawyers and alienists had fought for three years while the life of Scott, erstwhile Canadian financier who turned robber and killer, hung in the balance.

Scott, who hanged himself with his belt in his cell in the Cook County Jail last Saturday night, committed suicide while insane, the jury decided, thereby giving to Scott in death a victory for which he fought three years in life. Five times Scott, who with his brother killed a drug clerk in a holdup, stood in the shadow of the gallows and when he took his life he was awaiting a new sanity hearing.

Today's inquest was brief, and at its close the last chapter was written in the legal aspects of the celebrated case by the six unemphatic jurors who listened to the testimony of relatives, guards and alienists, returned a speedily verdict and departed jingling lunch money in their pockets.

Wife and Father Present.

Scott's staunchest friends in his fight for life were present at the inquest to hear the insanity verdict for which they had fought, but which proved an empty victory. They were Mrs. Katherine Scott, the slayer's wife and mother of his three children, and Thomas Scott, of Windsor, Ont., his father.

The widow, dry-eyed and without emotion, stared dully at a "keep smiling" sign and listlessly fingered the cracked leather belt with which he had possibly choked the legal noose as she declared that she had believed for a long time that her husband was insane.

Alienists who had examined Scott repeatedly also testified, declaring that he was a victim of an illusion that he was being persecuted and even believed the Prince of Wales and Senator Cullen, of Michigan, were among his enemies.

Then followed jail guards who told of finding his body, and a physician who testified that he had examined the brain of the slayer and not have the opportunity, as the body has been embalmed and they said this precluded the possibility of research work. Scott's father said the body would be taken to Windsor for burial.

A. J. Maloney Heads Reading Coal and Iron

Philadelphia, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Andrew J. Maloney, of Chicago, was today elected president of the Reading Coal and Iron Co., the largest producing concern in the anthracite regions; he succeeds W. J. Richards who resigned two months ago.

He was elected by the stockholders in annual meeting. Later he was elected president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Corporation, which took over the interests of the former company when the Reading Railroad was separated from the coal interests by court decree.

Will Rogers Tells Of Chamber's Plan To Divide Surplus

Special to The Washington Post.
Beverly Hills, Calif., Oct. 10.—See the United States Chamber of Commerce has advised Mr. Mellon how to divide up the Government's four hundred millions surplus. They don't tell him how to enforce prohibition or any of those hard things, but the minute there is money to be split up they are there with the suggestion.

WILL ROGERS
P. S.—If you didn't happen to read their first proposal to Mellon, it was that "their members should get three hundred and ninety of the four hundred million."

JAIL TO BE LAW OFFICE FOR REMUS IN KILLING

Large Table Is Piled High With Documents and Books of Record.

TAFT'S SON PROSECUTES

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The Hamilton County Jail today became officially the law offices of George Remus.

Seated at a large table, piled high with papers, documents, books of record and correspondence, Remus labored through the day drawing his plans to defend himself for killing his wife, Imogene.

"I'll work day and night," Remus said.

He spent a good part of his time this afternoon poring through a ledger containing columns of figures and in reading through typewritten data. Occasionally he made notes.

Remus is expected to go to trial as soon as an indictment is returned. The grand jury is impaneled today and the Remus case is scheduled for its first consideration tomorrow.

BRITISH PRESS CHARGE AGAINST U. S. SKIPPER

Report More Evidence Sought to Secure Indictment for Alleged Cruelty.

London, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The British government today intended to drop the case against Capt. Michael J. Crowley, skipper of the American tanker Manawatu, whose indictment was sought in New York.

Mr. Gregory asserted tonight that the defense would be able to prove the widow "completely innocent" of any connection with the slaying.

"There is nothing in the possession of the authorities," said Gregory, "to disprove her statement that two negroes were her husband's slayers."

National Assembly Is Opened in Spain

Madrid, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The newly summoned "national assembly" was opened here today by King Alfonso, the session marking the first parliamentary assemblage in Spain since dissolution of the old parliament on September 16, 1923.

Primo de Rivera and Foreign Minister Yanguas delivered addresses. The assembly was opened without incident.

ILLINOIS MAN HELD AS STATE WITNESS IN DOCTOR'S DEATH

Taken Into Custody in Iowa for Officers; Saw Auto, It Is Asserted.

Davenport, Iowa, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Sought as an important State's witness in the Lillendahl slaying case at Mays Landing, N. J., a Moline, Ill., man was taken into custody today, but authorities did not reveal his name.

The arrest was made by Police Chief Harrold, of Davenport, apparently on information from New Jersey. The man, a German, was said to have seen a blue auto drive away from the murder scene.

Mays Landing, N. J., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Margaret E. Lillendahl and Willis Beach, her reputed admirer, jointly charged with the murder of the woman's husband, Dr. A. William Lillendahl, today were refused their release from jail on bond after they had pleaded not guilty to slaying the elderly retired physician.

Facing each other for the first time since a few days after the killing on September 15, and then standing side by side before the bar of the Atlantic County Court, they heard Supreme Court Justice Luther A. Campbell refuse them their freedom and fix Monday, November 28, for the beginning of their trial. Neither spoke to nor recognized the other in the short time they were in the crowded courtroom.

Mrs. Lillendahl appeared very serious-minded and nervously clasped her hands during the proceedings, while Beach came into the courtroom in almost jovial humor and, although interested, did not seem to take the situation as seriously as did the widow.

Doctor Killed While Motoring.

Dr. Lillendahl, whose age has been variously given from 65 to 72, was killed as he was motoring with his wife, who is 42. She holds to the story that they were attacked by two negroes who jumped on their automobile on a lonely road near Hammond, shot the physician three times and then robbed him.

Beach, 55, a poultry raiser, living near the Lillendahl home in South Vineland, about twenty miles from the scene of the killing, was brought into the case when police said they found him had corresponded with Mrs. Lillendahl, who used the name of "Peggy Anderson." He claims to have been twenty miles from the scene of the shooting the day it occurred.

Mrs. Lillendahl has a son 8 years old. When Mrs. Lillendahl was returned to her cell at the close of the hearing, officials said she appeared unusually nervous and excited.

"It's an outrage," she was quoted as saying, as she paced back and forth in the cell. "It's an outrage, this thing the authorities are doing. Rather than put forth real efforts to capture the murderers of my husband, they are taking the easiest path and trying to hang it on two innocent persons."

Mr. Gregory asserted tonight that the defense would be able to prove the widow "completely innocent" of any connection with the slaying.

"There is nothing in the possession of the authorities," said Gregory, "to disprove her statement that two negroes were her husband's slayers."

CRITICISM OF OFFICIALS BY NEWSPAPERS UPHELD

Free Comment Without Malice and Substantially True, Legal, Court Holds.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Free comment and criticism of the public policies of public officials by newspapers is justified when it relates to a matter of interest, subject to its substantial truth and the want of malice, the Missouri Supreme Court ruled today.

The ruling was in a decision in the case of Will H. Zorn, editor and publisher of the weekly Howell County Gazette, of West Plains, Mo. A jury awarded $800 to J. B. Aldridge, sheriff of the county, for an alleged libelous article in Zorn's paper September 24, 1924.

The article declared moonshine liquor and intoxicated persons were making appearance at a religious revival agency in the county and asserted if the officials did not investigate and take action "the people of Howell County would get a change in November."

The article did not directly name the sheriff or other officials.

The District Court of Appeals affirmed the verdict, holding the story in the paper was not privileged. The Supreme Court overruled the appellate court, holding the article was privileged.

The opinion states that the "plaintiff bears the burden to show the falsity of the article and the presence of express malice."

GRIEVOUS DEFENSE OF UNIONIZED LABOR
AT STATE MACHINE

Says Federation Will Drive
From Office Pennsylvania
Political Group.

CLAIMS POLICE POWER
DELEGATED TO GUNMEN

Profit and Loss Basis for Postal Service Approved at Coast Convention.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 10 (A.P.)—

Notice was served on the State of Pen-sylvania today that the American Federation of Labor intends mobilizing its political power in that State to oppose what was termed indiscriminate delegation of police power to "thugs and gunmen" during the coal miners' strike. William Green, president of the federation, addressing delegates to the annual convention here, declared coal operators had granted commissions to gunmen who were sent into the mine strike areas.

"I can not conceive of such conditions existing anywhere except in the boss-dominated State of Pennsylvania," Green said. "I hereby serve solemn notice on that State that unionized labor proposes to mobilize its political strength and by means of the ballot drive from office those officials who have debauched their authority by conferring police power on corporations.

Green's declarations came after the convention had adopted a committee report affirming the action of the executive council in calling a conference of union officials and mine workers to be held in Pittsburgh November 14 to discuss ways and means of assisting the striking miners of central and western Pennsylvania.

Previously the convention went on record as favoring a reorganization of the executive council in calling a conference of union officials and mine workers to be held in Pittsburgh November 14 to discuss ways and means of assisting the striking miners of central and western Pennsylvania.

underground. On receipt of the letter,

Fall conferred with Sinclair and directed Arthur W. Ambrose, chief petroleum technologist of the department, to give him an estimate of the quantity of oil in the reserve and "some idea as to the possibilities of drainage."

February 18, Ambrose reported that he estimated 360,270,000 barrels in the Salt Creek field and 135,000,000 barrels in the reserve. His report disclosed no immediate action or agreement but only a possibility of loss during the next six or seven years. About that date Fall called Ambrose into his office where he and Sinclair discussed and, outlining certain provisions he wanted, directed that a draft of lease be prepared. The work of preparation required two or three days and most of it was done in Zevely's office in Washington. Questions concerning its provisions arising from time to time were referred to Fall and Sinclair; they settled all the terms of the lease. The draft was not submitted to any lawyer in the Interior Department.

The Pioneer Oil & Refining Co. and the Society Belgo-Americaine des Petroles in Wyoming had asserted their mining claims to lands in the reserve.

In 1917 the department fully investigated and found these claims were invalid. Sinclair, however, had held them invalid and denied application for a lease. In March, 1921, Assistant Secretary Finney dismissed claims of the Pioneer and Belgo companies. Later, they filed a petition to the supervisory power of the Secretary. Answering an inquiry from Fall,

Finney told him that the claims were no validity and no standing. The last petition had not been heard when Fall and Sinclair met at the ranch. The report that Fall called for was that he returned to Washington; it stated that there were no claims de-servicing serious consideration. Obviously, the department's proposal to standing claims was the result of an understanding with Fall.

Mammoth Company Organized.

February 28, 1922, Sinclair caused the Mammoth Co. to be organized. He promptly obtained from the Pioneer and Belgo companies quit-claim deeds of all the reserve lands and agreed with them that, in the event of obtaining the reserve, the Mammoth Co. would pay them $200,000 within eighteen months and $800,000 more out of one-third of the value of the gross production of oil in the reserve. Sinclair, however, submitting the Mammoth Co.'s formal application for a lease. He said that if the lease was granted he would be satisfied with the cash payment of $200,000 and the oil proceeds. He also stated that the Mammoth Co. was organized for the purpose of securing a lease of the reserve and that he would require the lessee to satisfy or clear up outstanding claims.

In March, 1922, much time had been spent in preparing the lease. Fall told a representative of a company seeking a lease that he was not ready at that time to consider leasing the reserve and that if he should so decide, he would notify the applicant. To one applicant for another company, who called about April 10 to submit an offer for a lease, Fall indicated that he would entertain a bid and said that he would be glad to see representatives of the company at Three Rivers. The lease had been signed by Fall April 7.

If teeth are "off color"

Clear whiteness can be regained this new way, and your gums firmed and toned. Combat that dangerous Film.

JUST because your teeth seem dull, don't believe they are naturally "off color."

You can restore them to clear whiteness.

Dental science has made some important discoveries in lightening cloudy teeth—a new method in tooth and gum treatment.

It acts on new principles. With right daily care you can work a transformation on your teeth. Can change your whole appearance.

Now a 10-day test is being offered to start you. Just send coupon.

It's just a film that mere brushing won't combat.

Run your tongue across your teeth. You will feel a film... a slippery, viscous coating that dulls and clouds their beauty.

Ordinary methods won't successfully combat it. That's why, no matter how hard you try now, your teeth remain "off color."

Remove that film and what you see will amaze you. You are simply hiding their beauty now... just like dingy grime on ivory.

New methods whiten teeth.
Firm the Gums

Film is charged, too, with most tooth and gum troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the million multiply in it and lay your teeth open to decay. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Old methods failed in combating it successfully. Then new ones were found and embodied in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent.

It acts to cradle the film and then remove it. Then to firm the gums and better to protect them.

Send coupon

Results are convincing. Largely on dental advice the world has turned to this new method. Send the coupon before you forget.

Many Things You Want to Know

ABOUT

100% Co-Operative Apartment Ownership

- 1—ECONOMY: Saving of a large percentage in rental through elimination of landlord's profit, vacancies, redecorating, etc.
- 2—PERMANENCY: Apartment the property of tenant-owner in every sense. Can be altered, changed or redecorated to suit his wishes.
- 3—LOCATION: Socially desirable location where cost of individual home of equal merit is almost prohibitive.
- 4—CHOICE OF NEIGHBORS: No family may become a tenant until approved by the other tenant-owners.
- 5—FREEDOM FROM CARE: Property under efficient management which looks after all the details of ownership and upkeep, relieving the tenant-owner of all cares.
- 6—SUPERIOR SERVICE: Tenant-owners are the actual employers of all house servants, who, through permanency develop an efficiency that assures better service.
- 7—VOICE IN MANAGEMENT: Every tenant-owner enjoys an equal voice in the management and operation—but no personal service is required of him.
- 8—INVESTMENT: In addition to the saving on rental, the tenant-owner enjoys his proportionate share of all increases in the value of the property.
- 9—MASTER OF YOUR HOME: The tenant-owner is in fact his own landlord. He is in full and complete possession to do with his apartment as he wills.
- 10—BETTER PLANNING AND CONSTRUCTION: The 100% co-operative apartment house is in reality a group of the finest, modern, city homes, built for the permanent occupancy of their owners and therefore designed and constructed with that care found elsewhere only in the most expensive private homes.

Post Puzzle Contest Sets New Style in Paris

Elephant Gray Becomes Latest Fashionable Color as Candidates for $2,000 Prize Keep Editor Busy With Solutions of Weight Problem.

"Hey, you fellows," cried the elephant puzzle editor of the Washington Post, as he burst through the doorway of a quiet editorial sanctum. "Have you heard the latest?"

He appeared very excited. One of his hands clutched a newspaper, while he nervously ran the other over the top of a somewhat bald head.

"Well, what is it now?" patiently inquired a mild-mannered little individual hunched up in a dark corner.

"It's announced," announced the elephant puzzle editor triumphantly.

"If you mean the American Legion," began the mild-mannered little man.

"But I don't," interrupted the puzzle editor, in a tone of exasperation. "I mean, of course, the elephant puzzle. Everybody in Washington knows about it. I didn't suppose it would equal Lindbergh's record across the Atlantic Ocean. Now, this shows how quickly good news can travel. The first thing you know some Frenchman will win that $2,000 we're offering."

He adjusted his glasses, and solemnly read the following dispatch:

"Paris, Oct. 9.—Elephant gray has become at present the favorite color, and is proving this week's greatest attraction for fashionable Paris. Baron Edouard de Rothschild was the one to launch the new tint in both dress and cloak. A great deal of this shade is seen at the Longchamps races."

"Why, it says Baron Somebody—or other introduced it," objected the mild-mannered man.

"Just publicity, that's all. The real answer is—"

"And it says—"

"Really, I have to be going," said the puzzle editor, glancing at his watch. "Those hundred fresh answers."

He was gone. The mild-mannered little man (who was the puzzle editor's boss) smiled as he resumed his work. But at times his face became very serious.

Mr. William de Haven, of New York, accompanied by Mrs. M. T. Haselton, Mrs. Robert Furman and Mrs. Raymond C. Turk, also of New York, are at the Carlton in the course of an automobile trip through the South which they are visiting previous to going to Florida for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Murray, of Charlotte, accompanied by Mrs. F. H. Rans and Mrs. Margery Chandler, are at the Wardman Park Hotel for a week en route to their home after a motor trip through the East.

Among those registered at the Carlton are Lieut. P. C. Treadwell, U. S. N., and Mrs. Treadwell; Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Cross, of Kansas City; Mr. Wayne Johnson, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clifton, of Ontario, Va.

Registered at the Roosevelt, New York, are Mr. and Mrs. David C. Butcher, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Sabine and Mr. and Mrs. Milton S. Stanley.

Mr. Joseph Guffey, of Pittsburgh, accompanied by his sister, Miss Guffey, are at the Carlton for a few days on their way to Palm Beach for the winter.

At a meeting of the board of governors of the Mount Vernon Yacht and Country Club the following officers were elected: Mr. Frederick Irving Cox, former Interstate Commerce Commissioner, as president; Judge John W. Price, vice president and treasurer; Mr. Leslie C. Garrett as vice president and Mr. William Bowles Clarke as secretary.

The horse show committee consists of Dr. Shirley Carter, Mr. James Madgux, of Warrenton, Va., and Mr. John Gaskins, of Warrenton, Va.

At Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, N. J., are Miss L. B. Fuller, Miss Forsgren, Mr. George B. Hooker, Miss Elizabeth Cole, Mrs. Henry Guilaine and Mrs. Mary L. Cole.

Miss Mary Frances Darr, regent of the Washington Chapter of St. Joseph's College Alumni Association, Emmittsburg, Md., announces the completion of plans for a card party at the Mayflower Hotel on Saturday afternoon, November 19, with Mrs. Victor Gollbart, chairman. Other committees are as follows:

Patronesses, Mrs. Koonen Drury; publicity, Mrs. Irene Schwartz; nifty, Mrs. A. R. McDonald; prizes, Mrs. Mark Gollbart; arrangements, Mrs. Frank Roach; printing, Mrs. Charles Rohrbach.

The business and professional women's section of the Women's City Club, of which Miss Pearl McCall is chairman, will give a Columbus Day subscription dinner tomorrow. Mr. Louis Rothschild, of the Better Business Bureau, will be the principal speaker. Miss May Bell Raymond will preside. Included in making reservations are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rothschild, Mrs. J. Garfield Riley, Dr. A. Frances Foye, Judge Mary O'Toole, Miss Mary K. Saunders, Miss Elizabeth Raymond, Mrs. William E. Chamberlin, Mrs. Ellen S. Mussey, Miss F. F. Miss Richards is now in London and sailed for home October 8 on the Minnewaska.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ramsay, of Washington, and Miss Cornelia Crans sailed with Miss Richards.

New York Society.

New York, Oct. 10.—Prince and Princess Clodwig Hohenzollern-Schillingfurst will arrive from Europe on the Aquitania on October 21 and will be at the Ambassador. Prince and Princess formerly was Mrs. Gifford A. Cochran.

The returning passengers on the Majestic, of the White Star Line, due tomorrow, include Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, Col. G. Creighton Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pultizer, Mrs. Dave Hendon Morris and Mrs. William H. Davis.

Princess Eugenia Ruspoli is expected at the Savoy-Plaza for an indefinite stay.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Sumner Welles, who were at the Ambassador following their return from Europe, have gone to their home in Washington.

Dr. Hellmuth Holler Released From Prison

Dr. Hellmuth P. Holler, self-styled bishop and former president of Oriental University, yesterday was released from Lorton, where he had been sent to serve a two-year term on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

He was the first person to be sent to prison in this jurisdiction in many years for operating what the Postoffice Department officials termed a "diploma mill."

Dr. Holler served 21 months of his sentence and an additional 30 days in default of a fine of $1,000. He took the usual pauper's oath before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage in which he declared he could not pay the fine.

General Officers Transferred.

Assignment of Brig. Gen. George V. H. Mosley, now in Hawaii, to command of the First Cavalry Division, Fort Bliss, Tex., succeeding Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Winans, appointed temporary superintendent of the Military Academy, at West Point, N. Y., was announced yesterday at the War Department.

National Juniors to Meet.

Members of the junior class of National University will meet at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the university for the purpose of organizing the class and nominating officers for the coming year. Election of officers will be held at a future meeting to be called during the next two weeks, it was announced.

"I Have Found There Is None Better"

A beautiful skin needs constant care and the problem of what preparations are best to use has perplexed many beautiful girls and women. Thousands who have solved that problem with Black and White Cold Cream are happy to recommend it to their friends.

Fascinating Sylvia Hasenberg, of New York City, is one who is glad to tell of her experience. And now Washington too will have a Julian Goldman Store

At 1315-1317 F Street, N.W.

Individual or Institution—growth is through service. And service, as rendered by the Julian Goldman chain of stores should not be withheld from those who would benefit by it.

With 55 stores already located in the East and the great Midwest—and famous the country over for its apparel and for its charge account plan—the spirit of service now takes the Julian Goldman Chain southward . . . and Washington comes first.

Saturday, October 15th the Julian Goldman Store Will Be Ready To Serve You . . .

Ready to serve you with the finest apparel obtainable from the fashionable centers of New York—the style marts of Paris—London—and our own fashion studios . . .

Ready to serve you with apparel in greater variety to make choosing easier—Dresses, Gowns, Furs and Lingerie . . .

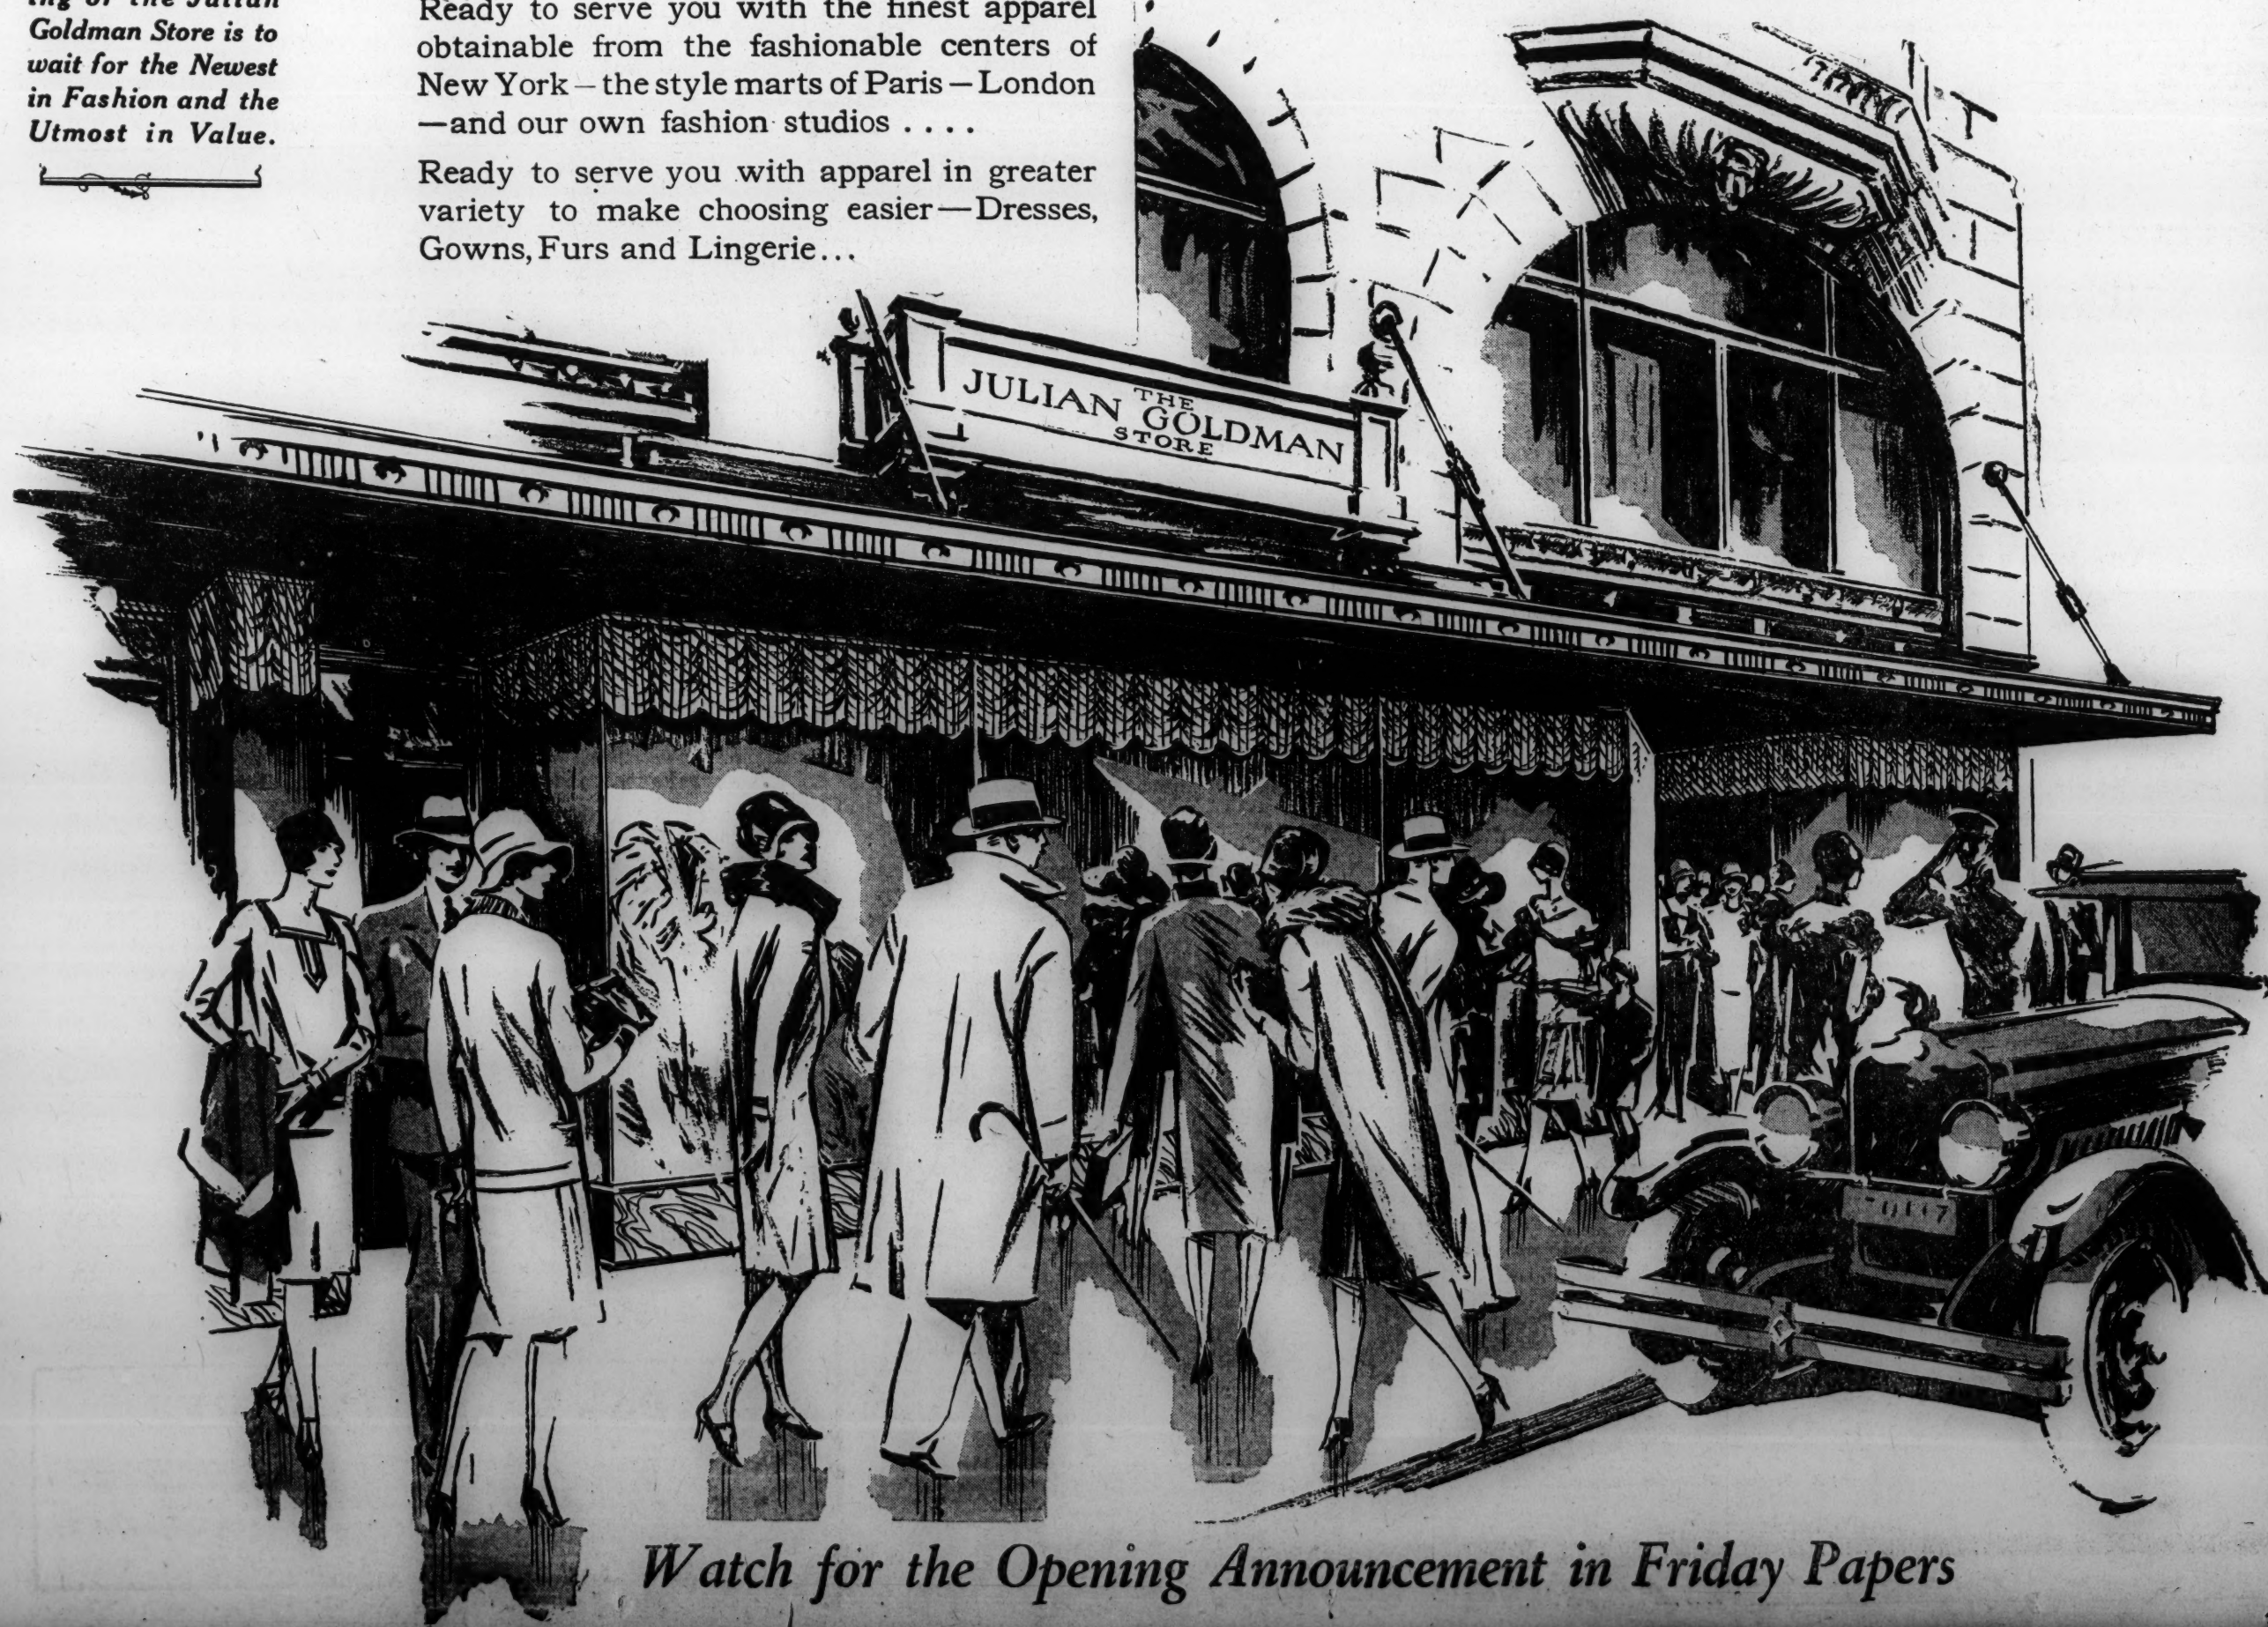

Ready to serve you Men with as fine clothing as you ever hoped to wear regardless of your income—and at prices that give full consideration to it!

Not only a shop for women—and not merely a men's shop. The Julian Goldman Store will be far greater . . . it will be pre-eminently a family store, dedicated to serving every member of the family and it is in this capacity we hope to demonstrate our usefulness to Washington.

[[A Julian Goldman Charge Account is at your Service]]

There is no charge whatsoever for this accommodation. You enjoy the same low price as though you paid the full amount at once. And it's the simplest thing—no bother or inconvenience—the whole thing is arranged in a few minutes.

To wait for the opening of the Julian Goldman Store is to wait for the Newest in Fashion and the Utmost in Value.

The first taste says "BAKED"

The first taste tells the story. So does the last. Heinz Beans are really baked—baked in ovens. Nothing else could give them that rich, golden brown, appetizing look—that tender mealiness—that honest-to-goodness oven-baked flavor.

You also get Heinz own delicious tomato sauce which permeates every bean.

When you ask for baked beans, be sure you get beans that really are baked in ovens. Beans not baked cannot be labeled "baked".

Read the label. • The taste is the test.

EDWARDS URGES DRIVE TO NOMINATE GOV. SMITH

Says Republican Supporters
Would Offset Loss of Democratic Votes.

HOLDS HIM PARTY'S HOPE

Calling for a concerted drive to nominate and elect Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Senator Edwards, of New Jersey, yesterday praised the record of the New York governor and declared he virtually was the only candidate of the Democratic party now in sight.

Senator Edwards maintains the nomination of Gov. Smith daily is becoming more certain and holds that if nominated he will stand a strong chance of being elected. Admitting some Democrats will not vote for Gov. Smith if he is the nominee, Senator Edwards contends he will gain more than enough Republican votes to offset this.

Referring to the Democratic National Convention, Senator Edwards said he favored Senator George, of Georgia, as the man to sound the keynote. He expressed a high opinion of Senator George's ability. As for the next national chairman, Senator Edwards said he had heard mention of Mayor Frank Hague, New Jersey Democratic leader. Senator Edwards, who discussed both politics and legislation, said it would be "downright folly" for the Democrats to organize the Senate.

Polish Loan Still Under Negotiation

(Associated Press.)

Contrary to reports from Warsaw, Treasury officials have been informed that negotiations for a loan to the Polish government by private American bankers still are in progress and have not collapsed. American financiers are understood to be considering floating $40,000,000 of the proposed $70,000,000 loan, with British and Dutch financial interests absorbing the balance.

If the negotiations are brought to a satisfactory conclusion, Charles Dewey, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of fiscal affairs, probably will be selected as American adviser to the Polish government and director of the Bank of Poland to supervise the expenditure of the loan. It is understood that his name already has been sent to the Polish government.

to surrender to Federal court officers here.

United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein declared that two-thirds of those under indictment will enter guilty pleas before their trials set for November 21.

Harry Volpe, another indicted, came into court several weeks ago and pleaded guilty. He still is at liberty under $10,000 bond awaiting sentence.

Of the 112 men named in the blanket indictment 3 have died since return of the indictment, 10 never were caught and 1 was released leaving 98 still to be brought to trial.

At the time of the return of the indictment Federal prohibition officials declared the conspiracy was one of the largest ever uncovered in the United States to defeat the prohibition amendment.

Alcohol Was Diverted.

The Superior Alcohol Co. was organized here for the purpose of selling grain alcohol to manufacturers of toilet lotions. The company instead, Federal officials declared, diverted the alcohol to bootleg channels in all sections of the United States. Federal officials said that the company made and sold $140,000,000 worth of grain alcohol a year to wholesale distributing syndicates in most of the big cities of the North.

The company was known as "The Wall street of the rum ring." The group set the bootleg price of alcohol for the nation, Federal officials said. With Philadelphia as the center of the control the ring had a virtual monopoly of bootleg alcohol.

Under the ring's ownership and control were fifteen distilleries, many of them in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, Ohio and Indiana. The distillers made grain alcohol for the ring at 60 cents a gallon, the price being set so the books of the company could be opened to Federal officials for inspection.

Profits Come From Spills.

The syndicate in each of the distilleries made their profits. Federal officials said, by "spills" from the organization in control. Federal officials said the distilleries averaged shipments of 15 carloads of grain alcohol a week each, some of them supplying as high as 30, while others ran down to 5.

The ring set the price to the distributing syndicate at $3 a gallon, a profit of 400 per cent. Federal officials said that with the average of about 400 gallons shipped in a carload the ring flooded the country with 900,000 gallons a week.

The wholesalers sold to the bootleggers and the bootleggers retailed to customers at between $10 and $15 a gallon.

500 to Attend Dinner Of Catholic Women

Nearly 500 persons, including dignitaries of the Catholic Church and officials and members of fraternal orders, will attend the celebration of the fourteenth anniversary of the Catholic Daughters of America, Court District of Columbia, No. 212, at the Willard Hotel Sunday at 6:30 o'clock. Earlier in the day the court will initiate a class of more than 100.

Prominent among those who have signified their intention of attending the banquet are the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, archbishop of Baltimore, and the Right Rev. Thomas Shahan, rector of Catholic University. Invitations have been sent to Gov. Al Smith of New York, Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts; Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana; the Right Rev. Thomas Brennan, bishop of Richmond, and the Right Rev. William J. Hickey, bishop of Raleigh.

AGREEMENT ON FARM RELIEF SOUGHT BY PROGRESSIVE BLOC

have surrendered his opposition to the equalization feature.

Therefore, the administration might well benefit from the agreement. Of course, as Senator Borah explained, there are many other features of the farm problem than that which the McNary-Haugen bill deals with, but it is the principal one.

The bloc will undoubtedly oppose tax reduction, seeking, instead, to have the surplus applied to debt reduction. Even if they are successful there are no indications that they will break President Coolidge's heart, but on this matter it is hard to see where they can be successful. They must align themselves with either the Democrats or Republicans to accomplish anything and it is a question if they can find any division on this question. Senator Borah said, however, that he did not see any general enthusiasm on the part of the senators to reduce taxes. If this develops to be the general attitude it will be hard for the progressives to get a fight. Everybody will be agreed.

At any rate, farm relief and tax reduction are apparently the two main thoughts of the progressives and neither subject measures up as a menace to the administration.

If the threat to place Senator Norris in the field as a presidential candidate materializes, Lowden and Dewey will be the only possible sufferers, it is argued. In fact, should Norris be given the delegates from Nebraska, Wisconsin and the two Dakotas, it will cut the heart out of Lowden's candidacy.

But first of all there is a question if this can be done. As pointed out, it is understood the Nonpartisan League of North Dakota has already committed itself. To say the least, the Lowden boom has gained considerable momentum in that State.

Norbeck's Position Interesting.

As regards South Dakota it will be interesting to see if Senator Norbeck joins the group. He and President Coolidge got along splendidly in the Black Hills this summer and the tribute which the President paid to the senator on the day of his departure from Rapid City may influence Norbeck for many a day. The President told the Rapid City folk that the senator was a great man worthy of any honor they could bestow upon him. Senator McMaster, the junior South Dakota senator, has aligned himself with the Norris movement, but without Senator Norbeck he could not give the State's delegates to Norris.

To do this in Wisconsin, in fact, would be a test of Senator La Follette's machine. La Follette, the elder, could have done it. Whether La Follette, the younger, can do it with the State and Norris dry is another matter.

Furthermore, as observers here see it, it does not take the progressives to stop the Lowden boom. They already see it losing strength. But admittedly, Lowden is to go into the convention as a delegate factor. The worst that the Republicans can do in prevention activity is to detract from the factor, it is pointed out, and, as said before, that will not make the regulars mad.

Of course, delegates that Norris will receive will not improve Dawes' chances if the senator is able to hold onto them. It is doubtful if he can do this in the face of popular Middle Western liking for the Vice President.

LATIMER WINS HONOR IN NICARAGUA SERVICE

Rear Admiral to Receive Distinguished Service Medal, Wilbur Announces.

Rear Admiral Julian L. Latimer, former commander, special service squadron, will receive the Distinguished Service Medal as a result of his work in Nicaragua during the recent disturbances there. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced yesterday. No date has been set for the award as yet, but Secretary Wilbur has approved the following recommendation from Admiral E. W. Eberle, chief of naval operations:

"I desire to bring to your especial attention the highly distinguished services rendered to his country by Rear Admiral Julian L. Latimer in handling with conspicuous success the many delicate situations which arose in Nicaragua while he was in command of the special service squadron from May 30, 1925, to July 9, 1927.

"Many communications have recently been received in the department from authoritative sources commending in no uncertain terms the efficient manner in which Rear Admiral Latimer performed his very arduous duties in connection with the recent difficulties in Nicaragua."

MORE BRIDE QUESTIONS.

QUESTION: When an engagement party is given, is it customary to have only the bride party? Or can others be invited? There are to be no bridesmaids. Ushers, maid of honor and best man are to attend. Answer: Any friends of the couple may be invited.

QUESTION: When leaving the church after the wedding, is it proper to have the maid of honor ride with the best man? Answer: Motors are provided for the bride party, but the maid of honor would be more likely to be looked after by the bride's family than left to the best man.

QUESTION: Should the bridegroom pay for the best man's clothes? Answer: It is not customary, though it might be done.

QUESTION: Is it proper to have only verbal invitations? Answer: Verbal invitations are quite usual in small weddings, with announcements sent out afterward to the larger circle of friends.

QUESTION: How soon should one send gifts before the wedding? Answer: Send them at any time you please.

QUESTION: Two ushers are married. One usher and best man are engaged. Should the wives and intended wives be invited to my engagement party? Answer: Certainly. It would not be civil to leave them out.

QUESTION: Should the bridegroom give the best man a gift? Answer: It is customary, and to the ushers also.

QUESTION: At the reception after the wedding, how should I seat my guests? Answer: You and your husband together. The best man's fiancée; then one married usher, then the wife of the other, then the engaged ushers; then his fiancée; then the other married ushers, then the wife of the first one; then some man friend of your husband's (to make the table even) and then the maid of honor on your husband's left.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counsellor

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

A MOTHER WHO FAILED.

I HAVE always tried to be a good mother," writes a correspondent, "and I have been especially careful to have my boy let the girls alone until he was through college. Now he has run away from home, married a girl who was not of my choice and is working at a filling station on a small salary."

Your letter reminds me of "A Good Woman," by Bromfield, which I have just finished reading. The principal character was a thoroughly good woman. She had high ideals and devoted her life to raising her family. Her neighbors respected her. She was thrifty with her husband's money. In every way she tried to make both ends meet.

But the ends never met. Her worthless husband ran away, and if truth must be told he ran away from her. She kept her pride by saying, "He went to China on business and there he died." After his disappearance she ran a restaurant and she managed it well. She was one of those "born" managers. But she overmanaged her son, Philip. Being a very pious person she wanted Philip to be a missionary. And so she made him into one. She succeeded in marrying him to a missionary. And she actually told them how to live their marital lives—when to have the first baby and the tenth. All beautifully managed. When they sailed for foreign lands she wore the sunny smile of satisfaction. Her son was following the vocation she had picked. He had married the girl she had selected; his family conduct was O. K. and his whole life all nicely tied up in a package.

But somehow the string broke. The contents of the package spilled. Be-hold blow number one: Philip wrote telling his mother he was getting away. Blow two: He was abandoning the ministry and coming home. Blow three: He didn't love his missionary wife.

The law of compensation has worked. Philip had translated a Sent Away into a Get Away. His father had run away and now he was getting away. For the first time Philip realized that he had never wanted to do or be one single thing that he had picked. He had had to be. His mother had picked his vocation, picked his girl and picked the place in which

When he came back he tried to paint and tried to fall in love with a woman whom he thought could make him happy. He tried to get in touch with his old schoolmates who had never been really "mates" because his mother always broke up any friendships with boys and girls of his own age. But it was too late. His mother had already devoured him and there was nothing left but bones.

A good woman? Yes. But as Bromfield brings out, "a woman and mother who made her boy into a puppet. When she pulled the string he danced. When she told him what to think, he thought. When she pushed him he started."

Even Wordsworth, my friends, qualifies his description of a "perfect woman" with the reservation, "one who is not too bright and good for human nature's daily food."

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Needs Mother's Counsel.

I was disappointed to find that you are one of the persons who forget to explain what circumstances make petting parties harmful. SMILES.

Answer: The answer would be the same if you raised the question, "What circumstances make striking matches around a gasoline tank harmful?" Repeat your question, inclose S. A. S. E. and receive my helplet entitled "What's the Harm?"

Stepping Lively.

I want to be a good companion to my hubby and family. He thinks we ought to step out a bit, and we can't because we do not dance. He wants me to take dancing lessons with him, not merely for his sake and mine but also for our three growing girls. He says: "When they are a little older we won't be able to keep them from learning, and it is better for us to be prepared to join them in their pleasures than to have them consider us in days to come as old fogies." COMPANION MOTHER.

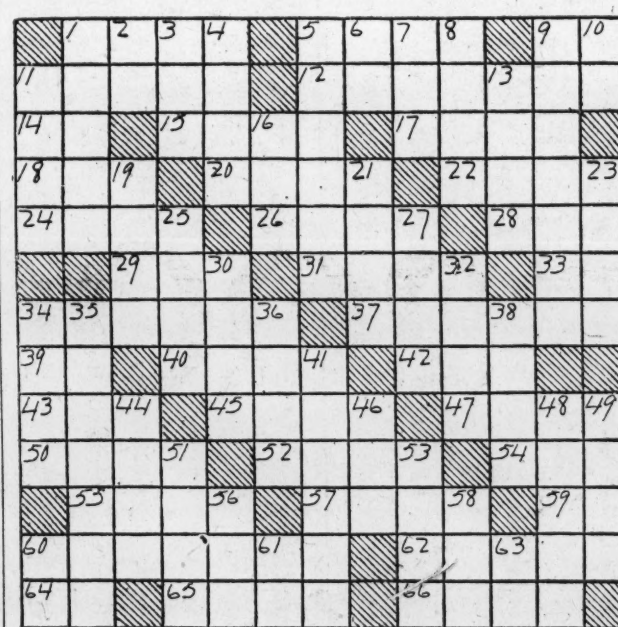

Answer: Your husband is quite right. The future of your daughters is important and you have to step lively now, because they will later.

What is your opinion of women in journalism? Is a "pull" necessary? AMBITIOUS.

Answer: If there is any place where "pull" does not work, it is in a newspaper office. All doors are marked "Push." Newspaper doors are always open.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertinent to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

VITAMINS NOT SO ELUSIVE, IT SEEMS.

THE vitamins stand the heating and treating to which foods are subjected in cooking and canning very well indeed. It is not necessary to eat raw foods to get a proper ration of vitamins. The people who live out of cans need not suffer from vitamin starvation. There is no evidence that the can eaters of mining camps waste away because of vitamin shortage, and sailors who live mostly on canned stuff have not so suffered since the use of fruit juice became the custom.

As a matter of fact, there is an intangible something desirable that comes from freshness in cooked as well as in raw foods. As they are killed, and eaten at the waterside, eggs eaten within one day after being laid; vegetables and fruits that are eaten within a day after being gathered, after ripening on the tree, there is something of flavor and wholesomeness that can not be duplicated. But beyond these narrow limits, properly preserved foods retain their vitamins, all their other wholesome quantities.

The old, imperfect methods of keeping food suitable in the absence of vitamins. The newer methods cause their retention. The invention of cold storage was a great boon to health. The development of the canning process, even a greater one. The heating to which foods are subjected in canning destroys less vitamins than ageing, shrinking, early decay, or the action of molds or bacteria. In other words, if food can not be consumed in its prime freshness the best way to keep the vitamins is to quickly heat it for a short period at a good temperature, and then to can or bottle it, and set it away in a cool, dark place.

The present opinion is that there are five vitamins though there are three that B will be split into B and a new one, called F, just as D was split off from A, and E from A and D. Of these C is the most delicate and E the least so.

In a bulletin on vitamins in canned foods by E. F. Kohnman the effects of heat, drying and other processes are discussed in detail. The vitamin C in orange juice stands best under such treatment. The vitamin C in milk is very variable in quantity. Heating probably lessens it somewhat, though not much, particularly if oxidation is held in check. The heating of cabbage, spinach, corn, carrots and potatoes did not greatly lessen the vitamin C, provided oxidation was guarded against. Apples and bananas did not stand heating so well. The vitamin C in tomatoes was lessened by heating. Yet the juice from canned tomatoes is one of the best antiscorbutics we have for either babies or grownups. The explanation is that the quantity usually consumed supplies ample vitamins, even though heating has decreased the percentage of that principle.

Vitamins A, D and B resist heating satisfactorily. They stand drying and evaporating if it is done quickly. They do not withstand oxidation well.

CHILD OF MONGOLIAN TYPE.

E. Z. C. writes: 1. Do children of the Mongolian type live very long?
2. My daughter is now 3½ years old and is just about beginning to speak. How long will it take before she speaks?
3. Is there any way of developing her brain?

1. No.
2. I can not say, since I do not know how much mind she has, but you must expect her to learn slowly.
3. Patient training is all you can do. As far as possible.

5. It is better to remove the roots. Some dentists don't agree with this advice.

You should give her milk, cereals and bread, but in all probability the second set of teeth are pretty well advanced and nothing you can do will change them.

WODAN, OLDEN TEUTON GOD, YET WORSHIPED

Death Notice Reveals That Cult Is Carried On by Association.

Berlin, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Not long ago a report that there were still Germans living who worship the old Teutonic god Wodan (from whose name Wednesday is derived) was received with some incredulity.

Now the Neueste Nachrichten, of Munich prints a death notice inserted by the "Old Germanic Tribal Association" announcing the demise of a member in these words:

"Wodan, the Father of Runes, hath been pleased to call our Furist—name follows—to Valhalla to rest with his fellows."

"Furist" means "leader" and the former Kaiser Wilhelm bears the honorary title of "Hochfurist."

The association carries on the ancient traditions and though the old Germanic tribes, and celebrates Midsummer Day and Yuletide with ancient ritual, clad in bearskins and helmets and armed with shields and javelins.

All members adopt old Teutonic names; deceased's cognomen being "Rotwin," meaning "Red Wine."

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Childhood and Fear.

ARE you a coward? I do not refer to physical cowardice. Most of us would risk our lives to match a child from danger, few of us ever think of contagion when one we love is stricken. Most of us run risks every day knowingly.

But! Do we stand up for our principles? Do we defend the friend who is slightly mentioned in our hearing? Do we say a good strong, snappy "no" when we mean no? Or do we just slip out of difficulties by being nice polite cowards?

Several people have written this column concerning their own moral cowardice, and in almost every instance the root of their infirmity goes back to a childhood on terror, punishment and bullying. Most parents today know the dire consequence to an infant mentally that results from terror and fright. But many continue to make, in childhood one long terrible nightmare.

The result? Adults who are cowards. Men and women who will do anything for peace. The ignorant habit of escaping punishment. Read the letter that follows. If you are a parent with a "temper" read it twice.

Cowards are seldom born. They are made, as this letter shows.

Dear Miss McDonald: I am another coward.

I dread harsh words, quarrels, sarcasm, and the like and wish I could take my own part. The few times I have tried to defend myself, however, I have been completely and rapidly defeated, and the latter state was worse than the first.

Breakfast: Orange-juice; Coffee with hot milk but no sugar; 1 slice thin whole-wheat toast.

Luncheon: Vegetable consommé; Lettuce and tomato salad; 2 whole-wheat crackers; Butter-milk.

Dinner: Oysters on the half-shell; Egg salad; String beans; Romaine and cress salad; Fruit gelatin.

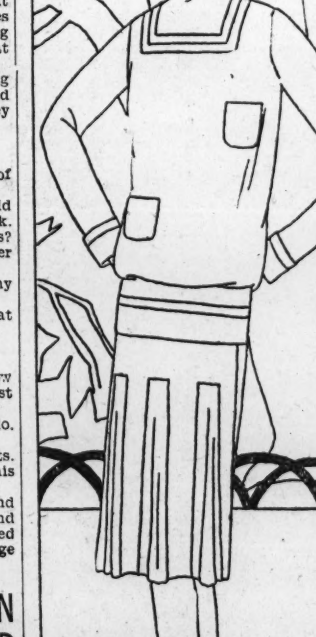

Candy, cake, pie and puddings should not appear in the reducing diet.

Eating between meals is also forbidden.

Dear Viola Paris: I am a girl 15 years old, 5 feet 3½ inches tall and weigh 118½ pounds. Kindly tell me if I am very much overweight, and how to lose weight.

Answer: If you are of medium build, you are probably 16 or 18 pounds overweight. To lose, you must adopt a nonfattening diet, combined with regular daily exercise. It is not necessary to go hungry, but the appetite should be directed away from sweets and starches. Eat more green vegetables and fruits, give up potatoes, rice, white

FOR COLLEGE WEAR

5 VOGUE 9137-9138

DEAR Vogue: Kindly give me some advice about a dress to wear to classes at a university. I should like to make it if the jersey I inclose.

I am 18 years old and 5 feet 6 inches tall. My hips are large and, of course, I don't want the dress to stress the fact.

Dear S. L.: The frock sketched above is a type that is perfect for a college girl to wear on and about the campus. It is simple and practical and adequate in every respect to meet the requirements of college life.

The dress is made of a chestnut-brown jersey and at the neck and sleeves and again about the hips is an applied fold of beige crepe de chine.

The pockets are gayly inconsistent and are placed one near the shoulder and one just above the waistline of the blouse.

The skirt may be made of cashmere if you prefer that to jersey, and it has circular front insets that give sufficient fullness to satisfy the rigorous demands of the most active.

The hat sketched is one of those simple, slouch felt hats that one can fold up and stuff into a handy pocket. It has the skirt of cashmere or kasha, one may vary the overblouse to fit the mood of the moment.

(Copyright, 1927.)

Can you suggest something? I shall be very grateful, for I despise myself and seem powerless to do anything. I suppose something is lacking in my mental make-up, but if so it is something I would gladly remedy, but just can't.

I often wonder if the fact that when I was a child father and mother quarreled continuously and violently has anything to do with it. I used to dread those awful scenes with all my heart. Father and mother had quite uncontrollable tempers and used to scream at us children if they were angry, and father, especially, when he was angry was quick to strike. It is enough to frighten the wits out of a child to be faced by a screaming father with disheveled hair (and father's hair always seemed to stand on end when he was angry) and huge blazing eyes and threatened to be beaten "within an inch of your life," for some childish misconduct or impudence. To be sure his "back" was worse than his "bite" and he only whipped me three or four times in my life, but that awful anger and sarcasm! Mother was pretty much the same, and even for some time after I was grown she controlled me completely. When I was 20 she tried to drink poison because I had planned on going to college with a girl friend in the evening and had been out one evening before in that week. Whether this is the reason or not, I only know that I will do anything, sneak or even lie—to avoid another anger or rebuke—and I hate myself and blame my parents.

FULL GROWN COWARD.

Clean and pick over one quart of clams, using one cup of cold water. Drain them, reserve the liquor, heat it to the boiling point and strain. Chop the clams finely, cut an inch square of fat salt pork in small pieces and fry it in a frying pan. Add one medium size potatoes, cut in very small pieces, until done, and add three cups of milk. Bring the whole to the boiling point, add the clam juice (not to exceed a cup and a half) and thicken the whole to the desired consistency with flour and milk, thoroughly blended. Add four tablespoonsful melted butter and serve very hot.

We have next a question concerning whipped cream used as a base for foods frozen in an electric refrigerator. The white of an egg does help, Mrs. Clark, and we add the egg white to the cream by beating them both stiff separately, and then folding them together. Indeed, you must find this method of dessert-making a great pleasure. It is nice to tuck a thing away and forget about it and to know that when time for dinner comes the dessert will be ready and in ship shape.

And now, lest we forget all about it, here is a menu for today.

Menu:
Cream of Tomato Soup
Boiled Tongue with Tomato Sauce
Baked Potatoes
Swiss Chard
Chocolate Custard
Coffee

Chocolate Custard.
(To be served thoroughly chilled.)
4 cups sweet milk.
5 eggs.
Scant 1 teaspoonful vanilla.
2 squares chocolate.
¾ cup granulated sugar.
½ cupful water.

Melt the chocolate in a small saucepan, add to it the sugar and water and cook these materials together until they form a sirup. Add to the sirup the milk, not heated, the beaten eggs and vanilla. Also the salt. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a pan of hot water as custard is baked.

Experiments in Style Aid French Business

Paris, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—American chambers of commerce might benefit from the experiences of Paris, where businesses only remotely associated with clothes are being helped by the general move of the fashion trades toward more feminine clothes and self adornment.

Hairdressers report that women are taking a renewed interest in their coiffures and experimenting with new ways of arranging their hair. Waves and curls are in demand. Beauty parlors are also booming and even eye works and cleaners are feeling the effects, they say, of the revival of the femininity.

Late for Wedding No Speeding Excuse

Sutton, England, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Sutton's ten-mile speed limit will not tolerate the haste of a mere bridegroom. Clarence Couradi, arrested for "making 27," explained that he was the best man and was driving the bridegroom to the wedding, for which they were already late.

"You must drive through Sutton as if you were going to a funeral," retorted the magistrate as he fined him £3.

These shoulders are new. They aren't raglan, although they look as though they might be. The material is pulled over the shoulder and fitted to the front seam with little tucks or shirings. There's no shoulder seam in back. For the rest, the frock is of Kashmir jersey and the pattern of silk crepe bands.

LINKS MYSTERY SOLVED
AS 'SLAIN' BOY RETURNSChicago Caddy Says "No
Honey on His Pancakes" Caused Trip.

Chicago, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—A grimy, hungry boy came home to his mother today and spoiled a mystery of the Chicago golf links which had caused the arrest of a fellow caddy, the dragging of a deep clay hole and the extending of a search from Chicago to Texas.

While two policemen were questioning Mrs. Irene Franks today in hope she might provide further clues as to her son's possible whereabouts, in walked the subject himself, 15-year-old Teddy Franks, whose pleasing manners had endeared him to many golfers at the Sunset Ridge Course.

"My boy! Why did you go away?" exclaimed Mrs. Franks as she grasped the dirty-faced youth in her arms.

"I went because I thought you did not like me," he said. "I went to get a good job and earn some money. I picked up rides along the roads until I got to Cusson, Minn., and then I decided I'd better come home. I got back the same way."

Wanderlust struck the boy just at the proper time for creation of a disappearance mystery. A few days ago he had accompanied an employer to the Skokie course and there had been threatened by an older caddy for his intrusion. The threat by Arthur (Gumbo) Orsi was that he might find himself in the "big hole at Bob-o-Link" golf course. It brought about Orsi's detention, but he was released on bond after the "big hole," a 50-foot-deep clay hole, had been dragged.

Later the Franks boy admitted he ran away from home because his mother gave him 11-year-old brother Emil, honey on his Sunday morning pancakes, while he got only plum jam.

"Why, didn't you get any note?" Teddy asked when his mother cried out the story of her worrying.

Teddy walked to a book alongside the telephone and from beneath it took a note reading:

"Dear mother: Don't worry, mama. I am going away, but I'll be all right."

WELLS PAYS TRIBUTE TO WIFE AT FUNERAL

Secular Services Held in London After Which Body Was Cremated.

London, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—At simple secular funeral services held today, G. Wells, noted British author, paid tribute to the late Mrs. Wells. Organ music formed the other part of the service, after which Mrs. Wells' body was cremated.

"Of natural things she most loved and cherished roses in her garden and sunlight on the mountain snows," Mr. Wells said. "The spirit of her life lives with us still. She returns to the furnace of material things from which her life was born. But within hearts she rests enshrined."

"She was a noble wife, a happy mother and a maker of free and hospitable home. She thought that a good deed talked about, or even held in memory, lost half its worth. The best and sweetest of her is known only to one or two of us. 'Some lives stand out on headlands and are beacons for all mankind, but some, more lovely and more precious, come only by chance gleams of reflection to the knowledge of the outer world.'"

VOLSTEAD IS BLOCKED
IN "HOME BREW" DRIVE

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Andrew Volstead, father of the national prohibition law and at present legal adviser of the Northwest dry unit, hit a snag today in his attempt to stop sales of materials for home-brew manufacture.

A restraining order, directed against H. B. Ovale, Northwest prohibition administration, Volstead and others, prevents them from taking further steps until October 15.

Leo E. Brill, first to be arrested, in a petition for an injunction, described the products in his store as "nonintoxicating beverages and commodities and supplies of the kind which for years past" have been sold in large department and other stores "all over the United States." Volstead, in his drive against "home brewers," declared he believed they could be reached through the paragraph of the national act which forbids "possession or sale of materials designed for use in manufacturing intoxicating liquor."

Rockville "Wild" Boy
Committed to School

John Dove, 11-year-old negro boy, whose shrieks from woods near Travilah, Md., several days ago so disturbed the community that it organized a posse to search for a "wild man," yesterday was committed to the Chittenden Industrial School by Judge Robert Peter in the Rockville Juvenile Court.

Authorities say he admitted starting the fire which destroyed a barracks on the farm of W. W. Spillman, on the Rockville-Darnestown pike a few days ago. In committing the boy to the institution, Judge Peter said there was something radically wrong with his mental make-up, although he is in many ways brighter than most boys of his age.

New Yorkers Greet
Marconi as "Bill"

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—New York's official greeting to Senator Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless, at city hall today was, "Bill, you are welcome!" The senator's first name is the Italian for William, and Mayor Walker knew it. The Mayor described Senator Marconi as the "man who gave the power of speech to the electric spark."

The address of welcome and Senator Marconi's reply were broadcast by radio, made possible by the senator's inventions. Senator Marconi said the generosity of Americans when his career was forming aided greatly in his discovery of wireless.

offer of the great Thirteenth Edition at a saving of 40%.

We want to make this very clear to everyone

Remember, this is NOT a condensed edition or an abridged edition. It is not something "just as good."

This is the genuine, identical Britannica—identical in contents, in size of page, in size of type and with the identical color plates.

Only mark this: for family use it is bound two volumes in one.

That is what makes it possible to put out the latest edition of the world's greatest reference work at this amazing reduction in price.

Constant studying is quite out of date

The practical man of today has no time for the old-fashioned kind of steady reading. He simply cannot do it. There are too many demands on his time. First his own business; then clubs and business organizations; then social and community responsibilities. Yet he must not become narrow in his interests. How can he manage this without a great deal of reading?

The answer is: let other people do the studying and give you the results. Furthermore, don't waste time on second-rate sources; get these results from first-line authorities.

If this is what you want, the only single place you can get it is in the latest Encyclopaedia Britannica.

This work is America's greatest reference book, especially for everyday use. It contains 600,000 indexed subjects, 33,000 pages, 15,000 maps and illustrations. Its articles are written by over 2,500 authorities, representing every civilized country.

With this work in your library, you'll hardly need any other books unless you want them as luxuries, for the Britannica sums up all knowledge, contains all information, in a convenient form, so you can get at it in a few minutes without going to a public library where there are other people around you all the time. The house that contains the Britannica is a house looked up to in the neighborhood. The Britannica settles all arguments and gives its owner the right to a final opinion.

DON'T WAIT—use the books while paying

This offer will hold only as long as the supply lasts of the New Form for Family use, so we strongly advise immediate action on your part. The New Form Britannica provides the 32 volumes bound as 16 (2 volumes in 1)—an extremely compact and convenient arrangement for the home. Only by binding the volumes Two-in-One has this special 40% reduction been made possible.

Get the Britannica now and pay on easy terms, meanwhile enjoying and profiting by its use in your household.

FLIERS ESCAPE DEATH AS THREE PLANES CRASH

Naval Accidents Wreck Ships but Personnel Suffers Only Slight Injuries.

ONE FALLS IN NICARAGUA

Three naval plane accidents occurred yesterday without loss of life. Lieut. Ernest W. Litch, naval aviator, escaped with a scalp wound and facial cut when a torpedo plane he was taking off in fell from height of 100 feet yesterday morning at the Naval Air Station at Anacostia. The plane was badly damaged and the cause of the crash has not yet been determined officially. Chief Metallurgist C. M. Berger and Assistant Radio Engineer Lawrence A. Ryland, Bellevue Naval Research Laboratory, other occupants of the plane, sustained minor injuries.

Lieut. Litch, a radio officer, had taken off for a radio test flight at the south end of the field when the crash occurred. He was taken to the Naval Hospital following the accident. Whether engine trouble caused the accident station officials are not yet able to determine. The plane stalled and fell in a tail spin. A wing struck ground first, breaking the force of the fall.

Rear Admiral David F. Sellers, commander of the special service squadron reported to the Navy Department yesterday that the plane of Second Lieut. Thomas, Marine Corps, pilot, and Sergt. Frank E. Dowdell, observer, crashed near Quail, Nicaragua, and the personnel escaping without injury.

Rear Admiral F. B. Upham, commandant of the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., also reported that Lieut. Comdr. Ralph E. Davidson's plane crashed into the Mississippi River at New Orleans yesterday, during the ceremonies incident to the Lindbergh reception, but was able to get ashore safely. Further details were lacking.

Contract Awarded For Air Mail Route

(Associated Press.) The Continental Air Lines, Inc., of Cleveland, yesterday was awarded the contract for operating the Cleveland-Louisville air mail route at $1.22 per pound for all mail carried.

Service on the route, which calls for stops at Akron, Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati, will probably not begin before March 1. The proposed schedule calls for night flying and connection with the New York-Chicago overnight air mail at Cleveland. Start of the service will be delayed until the route has been lighted under direction of the Department of Commerce. The Continental Air Lines' bid was the lowest of those submitted July 16. A four-year contract will be signed.

COSTES OVER MOROCCA ON HOP TO ARGENTINA

average speed of slightly more than 100 miles an hour. Paris, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Paris bade bon voyage this morning to another pair of aviators, who hope to cross the Atlantic this time with Buenos Aires, Argentina, as their goal. Deudonne Costes, as pilot, and Naval Lieut. Joseph Lebrun, navigator and wireless operator, took off from Le Bourget field in the biplane "Nungesser-Coli" at 9:43. They hope to have breakfast at St. Louis, on the Senegal coast of Africa, tomorrow morning, and then cross the South Atlantic in one full swoop to Pernambuco, Brazil.

If they succeed this will be the first time that a nonstop flight has been made between Africa and South America, although this is the seventh air trip between the two southern continents. Reports indicate that the aviators are having the advantage of a full moon which is sky and wind helping them onward. Apparently they had no difficulties in flying over the Mediterranean across the Moorish fringe of northwest Africa, jutting out into the ocean. Lebrun, who has flown over that section before, said prior to his departure that he would breathe easier over the Moorish country had been left behind for the natives have a habit of being rather unpleasant to aviators who make forced landings.

The Frenchmen made an average of more than 100 miles an hour as far as Casablanca. From there they had some 1,600 miles to go before they would reach St. Louis. The jump from Paris to St. Louis is about 4,300 kilometers, or 2,670 miles, more than a thousand kilometers longer than the Atlantic hop from that point to Pernambuco.

Undaunted by the heavy mortality rate this year among transoceanic fliers, Costes and Lebrun went away smiling, telling their friends that they would be in Paris soon again, and mainly would see Buenos Aires in the meantime.

They are well supplied with all emergency equipment, they have as tanks that can be emptied quickly, sealed and converted into floats; they have reserves of food, and they took along a water condenser, for the conversion of sea water, if necessary, into fresh water. With fine October weather prevailing and with no storms in sight the French are making other efforts for the glory of aviation before winter sets in. Leon Givon and Pierre Corbu, in the Blue Bird, made tests this afternoon, preparatory to hopping off for Dakar, Africa, thence to Pernambuco, and perhaps to New York by the southern route. They expect to go Wednesday or Thursday, if the weather remains good.

Another effort to beat the long-distance nonstop record of Chamberlain and Levine is on the program for tomorrow, when Capt. Anachart and Rignot plan to leave Istres, France, headed for as far as they can go into India.

Horses on Rampage Fatally Hurt Farmer

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 10.—Alfred L. Bishop, a farmer of Profit, this county, died yesterday at the University Hospital from injuries received Saturday when horses he was driving became unmanageable and a load of hay plunged down a steep hill into a barn, pinning him between wagon and barn. Several ribs were broken and a lung was ruptured.

Mr. Bishop was a native of Albemarle County, son of the late Lee Bishop, and was 67 years old. His wife survives, with four children.

MRS. GRAYSON AND PLANE LAND AT OLD ORCHARD

Monoplane to Be Tested Before Transatlantic Try, Woman Flyer Declares.

6 PERSONS MAKE TRIP

Old Orchard, Me., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson, who will attempt a "safe and sane" transatlantic flight with Copenhagen as her objective, arrived here at 5:16 o'clock this afternoon in her amphibian monoplane Dawn, from Roosevelt Field, N. Y. The time for the 325-mile flight was approximately three hours.

The big plane made a perfect landing on Grand Beach and taxied over to the hangar of Capt. Harry Jones, the starting point of the ill-fated Old Glory lost in the Atlantic while attempting a flight to Rome.

Mrs. Grayson, her pilot, Wilmer Stultz, and the four others who made the trip from New York said conditions had been excellent, with a favoring wind and splendid visibility. The clear moonlight, they said, would have made a night landing here perfectly safe. The others aboard were Brice Goldsborough, navigator and radio operator; Boris Lebedinsky, engineer; T. Harold Kinard, motor expert; and John Froge, New York newspaper man.

Immediately after the plane had been groomed for the night, the party went to the hotel. Mrs. Grayson said that the weather prospects make it unlikely that the start for Europe would be made for several days. In the meantime a series of tests will be carried out here.

"WON'T'S" FOR FILM MEN AIMED TO AID CLEAN-UP

Portrayal of Crime or Nudity and Ridicule of Classes or Races Opposed.

CONFERENCE IS BEGUN

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Aimed at making the movies safe for the American moron, and so for the rest of the public, a resolution embodying a list of "won't's" for producers was offered today by Louis B. Mayer, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, at the opening session of the trade practice conference called by the Federal Trade Commission.

It was resolved that special cases be exercised in the movie portrayal of theft, robbery, safe cracking and dynamiting of trains, mines, buildings, etc., "having in mind the effect which a too detailed description of these may have upon the moron."

Among other won't's which Mayer, speaking for the 45 companies comprising the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., asked the conference to adopt, were the film dissemination of profanity, portrayal of nudity, traffic in drugs, ridicule of the clergy, offense to any nation, race or creed, arson, use of firearms, technique of murder, methods of smuggling, and sedition.

After some discussion from the floor, during which representatives of the three branches of the industry, the producers, distributors and exhibitors, all expressed themselves in favor of the spirit of the resolution, it was put over for voting tomorrow.

WIN AN AWARD

$5,000 IN CASH

Important Facts to Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning an award, it does affect the amount you will receive should you win, as the value of these awards is determined by what the winners submit in subscription money. This is explained in the award list, which you should study carefully before sending your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning an award. Accuracy is what counts.

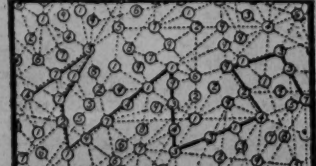

Not more than one award will be awarded to any one person.

THE PROBLEM

The sum total of the figures on each of the four elephants pictured herewith are all different, with the exception of two of the elephants. These two elephants weigh identically the same and they are twins. You can find them by adding up the figures on each of the elephants and the two with the same sum total are the twins.

The figures "1" to "4" in the circles in the upper left-hand corners of the elephants are simply to identify them. These figures have nothing to do with the elephants' weights. In submitting your solution you must identify the twins by their numbers and give the correct weight of each. Solutions to be properly classified to win must give the correct weight of each twin as well as to correctly identify them by their numbers. This is a game of skill and not a guessing contest.

There are no "ones" or "cyphers" in the elephants. There are no groups on figures—that is, the figure 9 is the highest figure shown. There are no "22's," "55's," "99's," or like groups. If you find a "22" and a "33" are written so closely together that it looks like a "23," it means that the "22" and "33" are to be added just as you would if they were an inch apart. There are no figures in the pictures except in the bodies of the elephants. The tops of the sixes are distinctly curved, and the bottom of the nines are straight or nearly so. There is no trick or illusion in the charts.

DECIDING TIES—IF ANY

In case of ties those tied for any award will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of a chart of figures like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used five times, after which, should any tie remain, each contestant will receive full value of any award tied for. In case there are no ties in counting elephants no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

NAVY RECOUBLES PRACTICE FOR NOTRE DAME GAME

Ruppert Faces New Salary Demands

Winning Athletes Due to Ask Wage Raise; Ruth in Fold.

Gehrig, Koenig, Lazzeri, Combs in Line for Boosts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—After refunding approximately $170,000 to world's series ticket purchasers anticipating more than four games, the next financial worry for the New York Yankees seems likely to be its 1928 pay roll.

Contracts for next season won't be sent out for some months, but there is already the prospect that, as a result of the startling performances of most of its stars, the American League champions will be obliged to "raise the ante" for the coming campaign. The pay roll of Col. Jacob Ruppert's athletes already is the highest in baseball, estimated to be anywhere from $250,000 to $300,000 for the past season.

The highest salaried individual, the well known Mr. Ruth, already is under contract for next season as well as 1929 at an annual figure of $70,000.

In view of the Babe's record-breaking home run streak during the regular season and his great work in the series observers believe that Ruppert made no mistake when he signed his ace to a three-year agreement calling for $100,000. The Babe had asked for $100,000 for 1927 and subsequently developments indicated he was worth probably that much.

Wiley Moore, the Oklahoma farmer and master of the "sinker ball," already has had his salary doubled, it is said. Reports have it that Wiley, who signed for only $2,500 this year, his first in the big leagues, later mentioned the subject of a raise to Manager Miller Huggins. After the manager had been referred to Col. Ruppert, Moore was advised he would get $5,000 for 1927. He now stands to get another boost for 1928.

Mark Koenig, Lou Gehrig, Tony Lazzeri and Earle Combs, younger stars, who all added luster to their records this year, seem in line for salary increases, as well as George Pipgras, brilliant young right handed pitcher, who rivalled the veteran Herb Pennock for series twirling honors.

Pirates Divide Spoils; Comorosky Passed By

Pittsburgh, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Twenty-six members of the Pittsburgh Pirates received $3,994 each in a division today of the losing team's share in last week's world series with the New York Yankees. The players, splitting a purse of $111,843, voted $1,990 share to Sam Waters, secretary of the club; $1,334 each to the three Pirate stars; $998 to the club trainer and coach each to the ground keeper and bat boy.

Participating in the division were the players named in the eligibility list, including Manager Buss and two coaches. Adam Comorosky, who was recalled from Wichita near the end of the season to replace Barnhart in left field while Cuyler rode the bench, was not included in the distribution. He participated in only a few games.

Following Through

Shirley L. Povich

THE experts face a dilemma. An impasse has arrived. Operatives have scoured the countryside and still, and still, there is no accepted hero of the 1927 world series. When no hero of the world's series? Alas and alack, 'tis sad and sadder.

A cruel world. Where have the masses missed that they should be denied, deprived and otherwise stripped of their hero of the world's series? What prank of fate has exercised its deadly intervention and decreed that in the twenty-fifth annual world's series there shall be no acknowledged hero? The said.

They tell about the deeds of Herb Pennock and of Wiley Moore and of Babe Ruth and Mark Koenig and of Joe Dugan and Tony Lazzeri and they even point to John Mifflin, but they can't decide who of these is the hero. They can be only one hero of the world's series. Two or three or four is a crowd and no hero can be a crowd. None can be slighted.

But there is a ray of hope for ye baseball fan. There is a light despite the superfluity of candidates. Like Abou Ben Adhem, one name leads all the rest. There is a hero. Undisputedly there is a hero. It can't be denied. Somewhere, somehow, a hero in uniform and he has turned up even in the 1927 world's series, the rest of the heroes to the contrary notwithstanding and otherwise negligible.

Digging deep, deep down into the records, scanning every event in the course of the series and fixing the microscope fixedly upon the entire cast of the Yankees and the Pirates, there is a name that stands out as a comparative unknown for your inspection as the hero of the 1927 world's series—little Babe Ruth, who hits home runs sometimes and who is variously and jocularly known as the King of Clout, the Sultan of Swat, the Big of Bam and one or two other pet appellations.

Babe Ruth. That name has a familiar ring to it. It seems that he has played in nine world's series. It seems that he has broken nine world's series records and it seems that he has had a lot to do with the Yankees' defeat of the Pirates in four straight games last week.

In the naming of the world's series heroes there has been a tendency to overlook the Battering Babe. They shout of Koenig and his .500 batting average and his play in the field; they tell of Pennock's superior three-hit pitching performance and of that of George Pipgras and Wiley Moore. And they sing the praises of Lazzeri and Morgan and they pass Ruth by with just a knowing nod that he did what he was expected to do.

Therein lies the reason for their failure to appreciate the Babe. He did what he was expected to do so well that it was accepted as a mere matter of course. He hit two home runs with one on base and another with two on base, and he drove in a couple of more runs with hits of various dimensions and he played his position in the field faultlessly like he was expected to do. And it was fine business.

Did anybody else hit any home runs? Not according to the box scores. Let anybody but Babe Ruth hit two home runs in the world's series when they counted, and he would be acclaimed a hero, accepted beyond any reasonable doubt. He would be a great player who rose to the occasion when need demanded, a great "money" player, undervalued.

Pirates' Sale Denied by Dreyfuss

$3,000,000 Purchase by Oklahoma Oil Man, False Report.

Friends of Owner of Club Believe He Is Willing to Sell.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Officials of the Pittsburgh National League baseball club tonight reiterated emphatically their denial of reports that the team had been sold. Rumors that Barney Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, had disposed of the club, circulated in Pittsburgh last week. These reports were revived today when the New York Evening World published a story reporting the sale of the club for $3,000,000 to Lew Wentz, former Pittsburgher and now an Oklahoma oil operator, and James Crawford, retired Western League magnate.

Dreyfuss was kept busy all day denying the report. When he received a telegram from the Evening World asking for details of the sale, he replied that the club had not been sold and that no offer had been made for its purchase. "There is absolutely no truth in the report and there never was the slightest foundation for it," said Dreyfuss.

"The Pittsburgh Club has not been sold to Mr. Wentz or any other person. Mr. Wentz has made no offer for the club since the occasion several years ago when he expressed a desire to purchase control, but his advances were declined.

"No offer for the club has been made by any other person or persons and there are no negotiations pending or in prospect with any one."

Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pirates, seconded the denial, but when asked if the club would be sold later he said "Anybody would sell almost anything he owned if he were offered a large enough price for it."

In the sale of the Pittsburgh Club for several years, and in each instance Wentz's name has been linked with that of Fred Clarke, former Pirate manager, as the purchasers. Dreyfuss denied the report in each instance, pointing out that the club was making money, that he was thoroughly satisfied as its owner, and that since his chief interest in life was baseball, he did not intend to sell.

In 1926, held a stock interest in the club at that time. When the movement was launched by certain players to move their headquarters to Madison Square Garden, under the direction of Carey, Clarke likewise severed his connection and the club purchased the stock he held.

Close friends of Dreyfuss say he will not sell out under any consideration. Some followers of the team, however, believe he would sell in order to get away from the constant strife which has marked the internal affairs of the team since the 1926 shake-up.

They point out that even this year Dreyfuss had his troubles, many fans claiming he was behind the benching of the club's star pitcher, and that he was a great player who rose to the occasion when need demanded, a great "money" player, undervalued.

Maryland Loses Star For Va. Poly Battle

Gus Crothers, all-Maryland guard last year, has been lost to the Old Line football team for the big game with Virginia Poly in Norfolk Saturday.

Crothers, who played only a short time for the team last Saturday, was hurt prior to the opening of that contest in tumbling on the ground in order to get used to hitting the turf. He made a bad landing and threw his shoulder out of place and may be out for a couple of weeks. Keenan, a big, strong fellow, but not so fast, will take Crothers' place against the Gobblers.

It was a rather sheepish lot of football players who scurried toward the field at College Park Saturday as they realized that they were beaten by a team that they should have defeated rather handsily.

A defeat always arouses a potentially strong, eleven, such as Maryland really has, and the Old Liners doubtless will be all the better for the bitter experience when they tackle Virginia Poly.

Maryland rejoined along with Poly for the final victory over Colgate, not only for the season that it was a triumph for football in this section, but because it will give the Old Liners an opportunity to retrieve themselves for last Saturday's ignominious showing by playing a real game with the conquerors of one of the North's leading teams.

OHIO STATE "BIG TEN" FAVORITE

5 Northwestern Regulars Demoted to Scrub Eleven.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Football tradition still favors Ohio State in its steady progress toward a Big Ten championship, for the Northwestern team which meets the Buckeyes in Saturday's big game has never scored a touchdown against the Ohioans. The only count they have mustered in Ohio is a field goal in 1916.

Coach Jack Wilce's Ohio squad returned from Saturday's victory over Iowa with but one casualty. Raskaski, tackle, is in the hospital with a slight infection in his arm, but is expected to recover by Saturday.

Five of the Northwestern regulars were demoted to the scrubs today, charged with lackadaisical play against Utah Saturday, and the five includes "Tiny" Lewis, fullback; Holmer and Levison, two others of the first string backfield, and Dart and Hazen, guards.

Whether their retirement will become another "Cuyler case" depends, Coach Hanley said, on their showing in practice this week.

Hilltop Team Pointing for Syracuse

Georgetown Likely to Use Aerials as Effective Weapon.

No Players Seriously Hurt in Davis-Elkins Game.

IN all the three games which the Georgetown University Eleven has played this season the forward pass has been conspicuous, which might lead one to believe that the Hilltop coaches will place not a little reliance on the passing attack in the more important games of the year. Coach Little has evidently found opportunities in these one-sided contests to develop the passing game both from an offensive and defensive angle. The play of the Hilltop Eleven against the weak but persistent forward passing of Davis-Elkins was the outstanding feature of the game from the coaches' viewpoint.

Against the Georgetown Eleven Syracuse will present a powerful first team that ranks up two touchdowns against John Hopkins with machine-like precision in the opening period before being relieved by the second and third elevens. However, the fact that the Baltimore College, which is none too strong, held the Orange outfit to a single touchdown during the rest of the game, while tallying a score itself, would indicate that Syracuse does not boast of any wonderful reserve strength.

The fact that John Hopkins also made its touchdown on a series of forward passes, which seemed to be the better part of its attack, according to reports of the game, was another salient feature that attracted the attention of the visiting G. U. scout.

If Georgetown can retain the speed in its running attack and the effectiveness in its aerial game that were in evidence against Davis-Elkins, it has more than an even chance of defeating Syracuse.

Although many of the Hilltop followers were elated over the surprising 39-0 score of the Georgetown-Davis-Elkins game on Saturday, Coach Lou Little was not inclined to entertain such an optimistic view of the outcome. Not that the Hilltop coach is assuming a pessimistic attitude for psychological effect, but because of the mistakes made in the contest that to the casual spectator were overshadowed by the decisiveness of the victory. Coach Little pointed out the better part of an hour yesterday in pointing out the faults in Saturday's fray and this did not include lectures on several other flaws in the Hilltop team.

With the exception of Tomaini, who was limping around the field yesterday with a turned ankle, the Hilltoppers were out of the fray in line shape. Yesterday's practice was confined mostly to passing and kicking drills, followed with a dummy scrimmage against the freshman team, which employed Syracuse plays.

Rockne Team Scouted by Ingram

Subs Made to Look Like South Benders in Practice.

Invaders at Top of Game; 74,000 Will See Contest.

SPECIAL TO THE WASHINGTON POST.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10.—Boys, we are going up against the real thing. Knute Rockne has developed his football pets to a point of perfection that I have never known at this early stage of a gridiron campaign. These and other words of warning were uttered by Commander Jonas H. Ingram, director of athletics at the Naval Academy, to the staff of coaches and Midway gridiron gladiators as they buckled down to work today to prepare for the battle with the Irish in Baltimore Stadium next Saturday.

Ingram had just returned from South Bend, Ind., where he saw the Rockne men defeat Detroit University Saturday to the tune of 20 to 0. "They played a faultless game and their work in every respect was wonderful," Ingram said, and his sentiments were O. K'd by "Rip" Miller, tackle on the famous "Four Horsemen" eleven at Notre Dame in 1924, who was with him on the trip. Miller has been one of the Navy line coaches for the last two years.

Ingram also gave it as his opinion that the South Benders did not cut loose to their full ability; that they were held back by the score on Detroit. "Saturday's game," he said, "is going to be a battle of thrills. But don't forget that Navy has a strong team and will be ready for the enemy," he concluded.

So today was a busy time for the Navy football board of strategy, as plans were mapped out to cope with Notre Dame's style of attack through the air and otherwise, as noted by Ingram.

One of the first things accomplished prior to today's practice session was to equip the players of the B squad, shock troops, with gridiron raiment to resemble as far as possible, Flanagan, sensational player of the Baltimore team of the Notre Dame outfit, and employing formations used by the Irish. The Middle West were put through the paces in many of the same formations that would ordinarily be the case on a Monday following a week-end game. The embellishments of the scrubs topped in many of the same formations that would ordinarily be the case on a Monday following a week-end game. The embellishments of the scrubs topped in many of the same formations that would ordinarily be the case on a Monday following a week-end game.

Then the game will be a hot right to the end is the consensus of opinion here, and Navy followers are anticipating it with much interest. The annual struggle with Army, it will be the big "home" game for Navy.

Rear Admiral Nulton, superintendent of the academy, will host at an official luncheon at the Washington Hotel, immediately preceding Saturday's game. The special guests will include Secretary of the Navy, William D. Clegg, and other officials of the Navy.

TIP TOP BEATS PRINCE OF WALES BY NOSE AT LAUREL

Favorite Fails After Poor Ride

Ambrose Overconfident and Is Nipped at Finish.

Laddie, With Sande Up, Runs Third to Frillette.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 10.—The Greenlee Stable won a lucky race in the morning when Tip Top was victor over Prince of Wales in the 6-furlong sprint for all ages and was provided as the chief attraction of the day. The race was given top weight and was a well played battle. It was ridden by E. Ambrose, made all the race and was just nipped out in the final stride by Tip Top.

The pair raced like a team from the break with Prince of Wales always in the lead. Ambrose evidently underestimated Tip Top, for at no time during the running did he hustle Prince of Wales along, and even at the end the Melan racer appeared under restraint. It was a mighty tight fight between the pair at the finish, but the official placing gave it to Tip Top.

It was simply a matter of overconfidence on the part of Ambrose, who drew the finish a bit too fine. What I do was a third, beaten off three lengths.

Laddie again proved a disappointment when he was beaten in the running of the Nanticoke Purse, a dash of 1 mile and 70 yards, for which he was made favorite, but the best he could do was to finish third to Frillette and Krick. The shift from Callahan to Sande was expected to make an improvement in the Widenor racer, but he failed when the real issue came.

Sande hustled Laddie to the front when the break came and in the run down the back stretch opened up a lead of a length. Workman trailed him to the turn out of the back stretch, and when called on Frillette moved up with a rush to assume an easy lead entering home stretch. In the final furlong Frillette bore out a bit, but at the end she had a length advantage over Krick.

Laddie was third, beaten three lengths for the place. The stewards called Workman up in the stand after the race and cautioned him to keep his mounts straight in the stretch run.

Fifteen 2-year-olds went to the post in the first and Starter Milton got a splendid break, sending the field away in a close bunch. Sun Ranger, quick to find his foot, went to the front, and with Little Broom in closest pursuit made the pace into the home stretch. At the furlong pole, Sun Ranger cracked and Little Broom shook him off, but at the finish he too weakened and was forced to stand a desperate drive to stall off a determined challenge from Reigh Oga, to win by a head. Galahad was third, two lengths off.

Lilly Sue was never really dangerous. She saved ground entering the home stretch but when the real issue came she tired.

Fretwell and Jockey L. Morris proved a losing combination in the second race. Fretwell found strong support and was always favored in the betting but when it came to the running he had no speed and for most of the trip trailed only with the real division. The winner turned up in Danger Signal who beat First Edition out five lengths.

Lady Glasen showed a flash of her old form when she went to the front at the furlong pole. She was cracked and Little Broom shook him off, but at the finish he too weakened and was forced to stand a desperate drive to stall off a determined challenge from Reigh Oga, to win by a head. Galahad was third, two lengths off.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LITTLE BROOM, $11.00; $5.50, $4.10; REIGH OGA, $4.20, $3.10; GALAHAD, $3.20, $2.10.
LITTLE BROOM was down pacer straightening out in homestretch but was doing his best at the end to stall off REIGH OGA. Later moved up on outside rounding turn, came between leaders in stretch run, finished resolutely and would have won but for some striding. GALAHAD, well up all the way, finished with good courage. SUN RANGER showed keen early speed but tired when final time came.

Field.
Two-dollar mutuels paid—DANGER SIGNAL, $10.00; $5.50, $4.90; FIRST EDITION, $11.10, $7.40, $5.20.
DANGER SIGNAL took command midway the backstretch and drew away into easy lead to win as he pleased. FIRST EDITION, well back for the first three quarters, came to the outside in the stretch and was much the best of the others. LADY GLASSEN displayed early speed, led on well though tired at end. KING O'NEILL II, well up throughout, had no excuse.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PARCHESI, $12.10; $5.50, $4.10; SUN ROCK, $7.50, $5.90; DUTCH GIRL, $4.50.
PARCHESI, running well in hand, responded readily when called upon entering the homestretch, easily disposed of leader to win with speed. SUN ROCK entered on long lead under mild restraint but tired when real test came in the final eighth. DUTCH GIRL, in close pursuit of pacer in the early stages, came on well. REBAN ROUGE, well back in the first three quarters, finished with a belated rush.

BEAUREGARD, showing high flight in the going, sprang away to a length lead leaving backstretch but was tiring in the last furlong and, doing his best at the end to stall off EUGENE S. The latter, in the middle of the track in the early stages, came to the outside in the stretch run, finished with superb courage and was catching the winner. CONCORD trailed well back to the turn, came through on the rail, then taken out and closed with a belated rush.

Field.
Two-dollar mutuels paid—SIXTH RACE, $2,000. Nanticoke Purse, for all ages. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 2:52. Off at 3:10. Winner, E. Griffith's b. g. LAUREL RACE NOTES

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 10.—J. C. Meister transferred the Steeplechase Billy Barton from Eye to Philadelphia yesterday for the Maryland sportsman, Howard Bruce.

John Whalen, John Loftus and the Riverside stable arrived from New York this morning. Loftus had his sheepchase Loujunge out in an attempt to school him but the horse did not take kindly to the Laurel field. He finally got over six fences but blundered and floundered at every one of them. At some he refused and when he tried to break through the others it may be that the horse needs company to school well. He will be a starter in the $5,000 added Chevy Chase steeplechase to be run on Wednesday.

Trainer Johnny Schorr and Jockey Eddie Ambrose were hailed before the stewards after the running of the fifth race. Schorr was charged with having caused the horse to be ridden in the stretch in which Prince of Wales was beaten by a nose by Tip Top. An investigation was made and it was found that the horse was ridden in the stretch in which Prince of Wales was beaten by a nose by Tip Top. A decision was withheld. Disciplinary action by the stewards may follow.

Condition books for the meeting at Oriental Park were distributed by James Milton this morning and in for much praise from the horsemen.

The liberal policy of the club was favorably commented upon by the American Jockey Club is destined to have the greatest meeting in the history of racing in Cuba.

The following horsemen have already spoken for stalls at Oriental Park, and many of them will be in the special train that pulls out here immediately following the close of Laurel: H. A. Davis, E. Sanderson, E. May, J. McCall, J. L. Cartwright, W. T. Macgruder, H. R. Smith, D. Leonard, M. H. Dixon, A. Austin, E. Hults, S. R. Ytterback, W. H. Denham, A. Allen, N. L. Byer, R. J. Miller, Edward F. Whitney, O. Yzquierdo, R. Curran and H. R. Shrewsbury.

Jockey Nick Huff, who has been riding in good form this season, will accompany the R. I. Miller stable to Cuba. A big delegation of horsemen made the trip over to Washington yesterday to look over the yearlings at the 22 youngsters that several horses he expects from Marshall Field and R. L. Gerry. He has a dozen at the present for Joseph E. Davis.

Other horsemen who were at Benning for J. S. Herkness and Friday Hopkins had a draft of the Harry Payne Whitney racers that are destined for racing at Bowie. Matt Brady was over trying to secure stabling for several horses he expects from Marshall Field and R. L. Gerry. He has a dozen at the present for Joseph E. Davis.

Jockey R. Workman accompanied James Roy to back of the Laurel and the Whitney colt Groucher also arrived.

Frank Capra, who is making the engagements of Jockeys L. Schaefer and E. Barnes, plans to leave for Texas on Friday to visit his mother, who is ill.

YOUTHS WHO CAPTAIN DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL ELEVENS

D. C. GRIDMAN
WINS BERTH
AT VIRGINIA

Turner, Former Tech
Star, Regular End
for Cavaliers.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 10.—Dick Turner and Harry Filipp, two youngsters who are playing their first season on the Virginia squad, appear to have won regular places as ends on the varsity eleven of the Cavaliers, which meets Virginia Military Institute here Saturday.

When the first practice was held this morning, the coaches knew that before they could build their team they would have to find men to replace Sam Fiedburg and Harold Aigner on the flank. And they knew further that they had no such men returning from the former varsity squad.

Turner had played with the 26 freshman team and he had given promise of making the grade up to the varsity. But the coaches had not been counting on Filipp because it was thought that he would concentrate on track until the 1938 Olympic games.

After a few practices it became almost certain that Turner would play on one of the flanks, but the coaches were on a wild hunt for some one to fill the other until Filipp returned to the university after winning the national pentathlon championship in New York.

His first practice was four days before the Hampden-Sidney game, but he was in the starting line-up of the opener.

Filipp is the son of Dr. J. C. Filipp, dean of the medical school of the university. He was track and football star at Episcopal High before entering Virginia. Turner's home is at East Falls Church, Va., and he played at Tech High, Washington, and at Devitt Prep.

Indians and Marines
To Play Saturday

Williamsburg, Va., October 10.—Another tough game is on the card for William and Mary's varsity football team next Saturday, when the schedule calls for a clash with the Quantico Marines, to be played in Newport News. The game will be the fourth for the Indians and the first of four to be played in Virginia's largest cities this year by William and Mary.

William and Mary will enter the contest with a considerably stronger team than has represented the local college this year. Many of the early season kinks, due largely to the inexperience of the Indians players or their appearance in unfamiliar positions, have been ironed out. Recent developments seem to indicate that the Indians players are finding themselves in their new places and will offer the Marines much harder opposition than could have been expected earlier.

No changes are expected in the line-up this week. Spud Plozom, one of the Indians' speedy halfbacks, has been taking training easier this week because of slight injuries to his back in the Syracuse game. These, however, are expected to be healed before the Marines join the Indians for the invasion of the seaport city.

Story Will Be Told in "Great Moments in History" Series.

MUSIC TO BE RADIOCAST

In honor of Christopher Columbus, Henry Ford has arranged for a dramatic presentation of "The Story of Columbus" in the "Great Moments in History" series at 8 o'clock tonight from WMAL.

Although the career of Columbus is known to the most casual student of history, Mr. Ford has approached the story from a new angle and the dramatic presentation bids fair to be of exceptional interest.

The third Henry Ford Radio program will be on the air at 8 o'clock. The presentation is brought to radio listeners through the medium of two engaging radio characters, "Colon" and "Christopher," who in their travels enjoy the companionship of a portable radio receiving set. They "pick up" the music of the Henry Ford Radio program and their comments on the program are the only guide to the radio listeners concerning the identity of the music.

Probably in honor of the successful New York Yankees, and lying in the interest in the world series, a baseball program will be featured in the Evening Hour at 9 o'clock tonight.

Music associated with baseball players and events will be played by the Henry Ford Orchestra, under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret, and will also form the incidental background for what is expected to prove a particularly popular number—King Lardner's baseball sketch, "In the Bull Pen."

"In the Bull Pen" was first presented in the Evening Hour and achieved an instant hit. A professional cast has been engaged to broadcast it this Tuesday.

Among the baseball songs to be sung will be "Along Came Ruth" and "Take Me to the Ball Game." The baseballs will be heard at 10 o'clock in a special presentation.

The "Villa Roman Club Entertainers," assisted by their orchestra, will be heard from WMAL at 7 o'clock tonight in a half-hour program.

A talk on eye marketing, with hints on buying for the consumer, will be given by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist for the extension service of the University of Maryland, at 7:45 o'clock.

A new series of travel talks will be started from WMAL at 9:30 o'clock by William Knowles Cooper, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., the subject of which is "Getting Better Acquainted With Our European Neighbors."

CONSULAR RULINGS TO AD TRADE ASKED BY PAN-AMERICANS

Action at Commission Session Follows Kellogg's Plea to End Obstacles.

ENVOYS VOTE FOR USE OF FEWER DOCUMENTS

Committee to Be Appointed to Settle Questions Left Over.

Urged by Secretary of State Kellogg in his welcoming address to dispense with conflicting consular requirements which are retarding the natural flow of commerce between North and South America, delegates to the Pan-American Commission on Simplification and Standardization of Consular Procedure at their opening session yesterday, started cutting away the maze of "red tape" entwined in the consular procedure of the 21 republics of the American Continent.

The commission voted to recommend suppression of consular certification on bills of lading and to recommend that countries not using consular invoices may continue to use certificates of origin of merchandise imported, for statistical, sanitary or other purposes, other countries to combine the certificates of origin with the consular invoice. Consular certification on bills of lading should be continued, the commission voted. Most of the discussion yesterday dealt with the first topic on the program, "Reduction in the Number of Documents Requiring Consular Certification."

Kellogg Urges Simplification. Calling attention to the fact that a certain amount of regulation is necessary to protect the national interests of the respective governments, Secretary Kellogg declared that it is nevertheless "a matter of importance to all countries that these regulations should be reduced to a minimum and that they should be made as simple as possible."

"The purpose of the regulations," he said, "should be not to hinder trade, but to facilitate commerce, thereby promoting the expansion of industry and contributing to the wealth and prosperity of the nation."

It is in addition to thus simplifying the requirements a certain degree of uniformity can be reached in the consular procedure, "a marked step forward will have been taken and the nations of America will have given further demonstration of the spirit of mutual helpfulness and cooperation which united us," he added.

Frederick T. Dumont, consul general of the United States, and Henry Chalmers, chief of the foreign tariff division of the Bureau of Customs and Domestic Commerce, were elected chairman and secretary general, respectively, of the conference.

21 Nations Represented. The delegates, most of whom are commercial attaches in the United States, represent all of the 21 nations on the American continent. They will hold meetings today, tomorrow and Thursday at the Pan-American Union Building, then will adjourn until October 24. Before adjourning, however, they will appoint a drafting committee which will report back to the reassembled conference in regard to any questions on which an agreement is not reached now.

Spanish was adopted yesterday as the official language of the conference, with English also to be used. A summary of the proceedings with the text of the resolutions will be translated into French and Portuguese for the use of the governments using these languages.

The Minister of Colombia, Dr. Enrique Olaya, vice chairman of the governing board of the Pan-American Union, in extending his welcome to the conference, said:

"The importance of the studies entrusted to this commission is universally recognized. Its assembly," he added, "is in obedience to the conviction expressed both by the governing boards of the Pan-American Union and by the commercial conference which met here early this year, that it would be highly advantageous to make a serious study of the laws and practices of consular procedure in an endeavor to bring about standardization in matters which affect commercial development of the nations represented."

SCHIFF AIR TROPHY WON BY LIEUT. ARTHUR GAVIN

Naval Flier Was in Plane 865 Hours in Year Without Accident.

COOLIDGE TO GIVE PRIZE

The Herbert Schiff Memorial trophy for the greatest number of flying hours during a year without serious accident has been won this year by Lieut. Arthur Gavin, U. S. N., who has a record of 865 flying hours during the fiscal year 1926-27 without serious accident to personnel or damage to material. It will be awarded some time in November by President Coolidge.

Lieut. Gavin is the third to win the trophy, which was donated by the family of Lieut. Herbert Schiff, United States Naval Reserve Force, New York, to promote safe flying and commemorating Lieut. Schiff, who was killed in line of duty at the naval air station, Hampton Roads, Va., July 11, 1924.

Lieut. Gavin, born in 1895 at Ashland, Wis., enlisted in the Navy during the war, and while at the naval air station, Pensacola, Fla., received the rank of ensign in the reserve in September, 1918. In October, 1918, he was ordered to the naval air station, San Diego, Calif., and in 1919 was sent to Houston, Tex., for duty in connection with the recruiting of aviation mechanics.

He returned to San Diego in 1920. In April, 1919, he received the rank of junior grade lieutenant, reserve, and in that year, while commanding a patroling Lieut. Schiff, who was killed in line of duty at the naval air station, Hampton Roads, Va., July 11, 1924.

Jews Celebrating Feast of Succoth

Services Will Be Held at the Synagogues Today and Tomorrow.

Washington Jewry last night began celebrating the Feast of the Succoth. Special services were held in the synagogues to commemorate the Succoth festival, which comes during the seven days of the Feast of the Ingathering. The celebration is in commemoration of the 40 years the Israelites spent in the desert while being delivered from Egyptian bondage.

Services will be held in all synagogues today and tomorrow. The Feast of the Ingathering will continue for six days, following which there will be two more days of feasting. This will conclude the festival, which will last for a total of eight days.

Rabbi J. T. Loeb will be assisted in his services at the Ohav Shalom Synagogue by Cantor Abraham Kalinowski. Special music will be sung by the male choir led by Samuel Selesky, of Toronto, who came here especially for the feast celebration. Rabbi Louis J. Schwab will conduct services at Adath Israel. Cantor Louis Novick and Cantor Benjamin Groseberg will have charge of the music. Rabbi Louis J. Schwab will conduct the services at the Washington Hebrew Congregation in the absence of Rabbi Abraham Simon. Rabbi Barishansky, Rabbi George Silverstein and Rabbi Moses A. Horwitz also will hold services.

St. Elizabeth's Head Sued. Harry Williams, former solicitor, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against Dr. William A. Murder Verdict Returned.

Harry Offutt, colored, 50 years old, indicted on a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of his wife Lucretia, 30 years old, on July 10, in Pierce court southwest, was found guilty yesterday by a jury in Criminal Court No. 1, Chief Justice McCoy presiding. The evidence, as introduced by Assistant District Attorney Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, told the boys that they had been indicted by being selected to serve on the patrol and urged them to obey the instructions they received from organizers of the patrol explicitly.

Thodore F. Behler, of the A. A. A. warned the boys that they were to remain on the sidewalks while they were on duty. Their duty, he said, was not to snatch their playmates from under the wheels of automobiles but to keep the children on the sidewalk until they could cross in safety. Behler will

F. W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, yesterday in a letter to the Boys' Club of Washington endorsed the campaign to raise $125,000 for the club.

Dr. Ballou stated "I am glad to know that the Boys' Club of Washington contemplates enlarging its building facilities in order to provide more adequately for the increasing number of boys who desire to participate in the clean and healthful activities which the Boys' Club of Washington provides for them during their leisure hours. The services which the Boys' Club renders to the boys of Washington is of immeasurable value in the making of worthy young men and for the citizens of the city."

Policeman Hit, Two Slashed in Dance Riot

Policeman J. J. Hunter was struck with a brick and two negroes slashed in a "free-for-all" fight early yesterday following a dance at Fishermen's Hall, 320 F street southwest. Police reserves arrested 35 negroes.

The trouble is said to have started when some of the dancers became jealous of attention paid women present. Police say 300 negroes were involved in the riot. Policeman Hunter was taken to Emergency Hospital, where an X-ray examination was made to determine his injuries.

LICENSES FOR WELFARE UNITS URGED AT FORUM

Trade Organizations', Children's Bureau Delegates Favor Control.

Licensing and supervising of welfare agencies by the government was advocated yesterday at the open forum held under the auspices of the Washington Council of Social Agencies in the Y. W. C. A. Building, Seventeenth and K streets northwest.

John Ihlder, United States Chamber of Commerce; Edward Shaw, Merchants and Manufacturers Association; Louis Rothschild, Better Business Bureau, and Miss Mary Leet, United States Children's Bureau, spoke in favor of licensing of the organizations providing for dependents.

Joseph Sullivan, representing the Catholic Charities of Washington, opposed the proposition, declaring many excellent institutions had been operating here for years without their methods being questioned and that it would be an imposition to subject such agencies to government supervision now.

Mr. Shaw asserted all welfare organizations should be under some kind of supervision in order to curb organizations that prey on the public and get money under the guise of soliciting for charity. Mr. Rothschild predicted that the weeding out of fraudulent organizations by regulating their operations would have a salutary effect upon the remaining organizations.

He spoke with emphasis against "charity promoters" who stage balls and parties for charities, but who put most of the money into his own pocket.

Mr. Ihlder declared the lack of supervision afforded too great an opportunity for abuse of power. He said all organizations soliciting money for charity should submit a financial report to the government each year and that institutions in which the old, young and insane live should be supervised and required to have licenses to operate.

OVER HERE—OVER THERE—

WITH MASKED SET FACES, THE BRITISH INFANTRY OUTNUMBERED IN CERTAIN SECTORS AS MUCH AS 50 TO 1, WAITED FOR THE IMPENDING GERMAN ATTACK, AS THE BRITISH ARTILLERY THUNDERED A DEFIANT ANSWER TO THE BLANKET-LIKE BARRAGE WHICH THE GERMANS SENT OVER.

AT 9:40 A.M. ON MAR. 21, 1918 THE GUNS SWIRLED TO A ROLLING BARRAGE AND THE GREAT ATTACK BEGAN. WAVE AFTER WAVE OF THE ENEMY'S HORDES ROURED OUT OF THEIR LINES AND SWEEP ACROSS NO-MAN'S-LAND.

RIFLES, MACHINE GUNS, FLAME THROWERS, HAND GRENADES, TRENCH MORTARS, LIGHT PORTABLE FIELD PIECES—WITH EVERY IMPLEMENT KNOWN TO SCIENCE—LUDENDORFF'S FAST ARMY MOVED ON THE BRITISH, TO STRIKE THE BLOW THAT WAS TO BRING IT VICTORY.

LIVES MEANT NOTHING TO THE GERMAN COMMAND—A MILLION CASUALTIES, IF NEED BE, WERE NOT TOO HIGH A PRICE TO PAY FOR VICTORY. WITHOUT A PAUSE THOUSANDS OF GERMAN MARCHED TO DEATH AS THE BRITISH MACHINE GUNNERS SWEEP THE FRONT WITH A DEVASTATING FIRE.

ON THEY CAME—FASTER THAN THE BRITISH COULD MOW THEM DOWN. OVER THE BODIES OF THEIR FALLEN COMRADES THEY JUMPED, FELL, STUMBLED IN THEIR MAD DRIVE FOR BRITISH POSITIONS. BRITISH AIEMEN TORTURED THE ADVANCING GERMAN WITH A STEADY RUN MACHINE GUN FIRE.

Fighting to the Death
